

WE NOMINATE

Louis Fischer, one of the brilliant journalists of our time, a front-rank interpreter of world affairs for some four decades, and a Princetonian for the past six years, who this week was singled out for an honor reserved for "literature of distinction"—one of the five National Book Awards for 1964. This coveted accolade, comparable to a Pulitzer Prize, came to the 69-year old Fischer in recognition of his monumental "The Life of Lenin," a 703-page study which since its appearance last summer has been "picked up" for publication in England, Germany, France, Sweden, Italy and Spain.

The excitement generated by a National Book Award is an appropriate tribute for this scholar-reporter, a school teacher in Philadelphia during World War I, a European correspondent for major American journals throughout the 1920's and 1930's, and a leading authority on the Soviet Union, India and the underdeveloped nations. The Lenin work, that may well be followed by a reassessment of 1,000 years of Russian history "to find out why she went the way she did," was actually Fischer's 20th book in a career stretching back to his "Oil Imperialism" in 1926.

Tuesday afternoon's presentation ceremonies in the grand ballroom of the New York Hilton Hotel called to mind an analysis of Fischer's reportorial skills penned some 30 years ago in welcoming his "Soviet in World Affairs." "It is nothing short of an acrobatic feat," a major critic noted, "to remain as poised as Fischer in the vast arena of Red Russia, to see so much and to see so clearly, to probe depths, to indicate shallowness, to discuss the human and the barbaric."

In accepting the $1,000 Book Award, Fischer spoke with characteristic crispness and insight:

"To cope with the power of powerful men running powerful states, civilization needs to nurture brave individuals who grow big in stature and influence by fighting whenever and wherever they encounter evil. Mahatma Gandhi was such an individual. Martin Luther King Jr., the Gandhi of America, another; may their tribe increase."

Fischer filed his first dispatches from Europe in 1921 and was among the first American newsmen to make the Soviet Union an area of specialization. Year upon year he "covered" Western Europe and Russia so extensively that he was described by an associate as the "best-known and most knowing American" in European capitals. His wide-ranging knowledge and intuition were dramatically underscored in 1961 when in "The Washington Post" he envisioned the downfall of Nikita Khrushchev: "They are hardly likely to bow down before a new God named Nikita who . . . will someday be deflated and dethroned for his shortcomings."

Ever since the outbreak of World War II added new dimensions to international crises Fischer has broadened his "beat" to include Asia with emphasis on India. From his typewriter have come such compelling volumes as "Gandhi and Stalin," a biography of Gandhi, and "The Story of Indonesia." In recent months, Fischer, for three years a member of The Institute for Advanced Study and currently associated with Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs, has been "standing by" to offer advice to the Hollywood people making a movie about Gandhi, this based on his 1950 definitive study, "The Life of Mahatma Gandhi."

For his achievements as a "journalist with scholarly leanings" and as a "scholar with journalistic leanings"; for his contributions to his fellow men's understanding of the world around them; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee as

"DEAR EDITOR"

The Customers Always Write. Letters to the Editor are a frequently fascinating feature of the daily and weekly press, and when they are more numerous and have more than the normal degree of interest, TOWN TOPICS enjoys giving them page one prominence.

This has been such a week. Correspondents have covered subjects ranging from belief that nearby school sending districts are attempting to ride inexpensively on the Borough's coattails, to the question of whether it was just to publicize the case of a Princeton resident charged last week with the sale of marijuana.

Others have written to suggest that motion pictures reviewed in TOWN TOPICS be labelled "adult fare" by critic and theatre alike when unsuitable for children; to take exception to the reasons advanced last week supporting school merger; and to warn of a "hidden increase" in the Township's tax structure for 1965.

All of the contributions to "Mailbox" received during the past week could not be published in the current issue. TOWN TOPICS welcomes all letters on matters of community interest (communications covering subjects ranging from the state to the international level do not mesh with its policy of covering news emanating directly from this area), and reminds those who take pen in hand that brevity is normally a guarantee of publication.

Free Rides Should End.

To the Editor of Town Topics: Dear Sir,

I note with no surprise that the West Windsor school board has approved Mr. Bradford Craig's proposal to join in with the suggested regionalization of the Princeton school systems. From their point of view, nothing could be a better solution of the dilemma faced by the outside seating districts. This dilemma is one about which very little has been done although all concerned knew it would have to be solved.

LET'S DANCE! Linda comes from South Africa and Betty from Princeton but they have a lot in common: Linda Farish (left) is a Princeton High School senior, living this year with PHS senior Betty Beck (right) and her parents, Dr. and Mrs. John Beck, as an American Field Service student. Both Linda and Betty will attend the American Field Service Benefit Dance Saturday at Miss Fine's.

But if it is a good move from the viewpoint of West Windsor, it is not so from that of Princeton. The present crowded conditions, which are more than merely "alleged," as one district put it, would be greatly alleviated if the outside districts were withdrawn.

They have long known they were to go but have dragged their feet and hoped their stalling would enable them to prove themselves in hardship straits so that Princeton would have to continue to carry them. How they can feel any responsibility for their education rests on the people of Princeton is hard to see.

The present arrangement has enabled these districts to get by with lower taxes than Princeton, since they have not had to bear the capital costs of constructing high school facilities. It was a great deal for them, but it is time the people of Princeton ceased carrying part of the cost of educating other people's children.

If these people want the benefit of Princeton schools they should move into Princeton and pay Princeton real estate prices and taxes. The Princeton community will have all the students it needs to fill a fine regionalized school system. It does not need to import any more.

"Tragic" and "Regrettable."
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Tragic and regrettable are the words which seem most fitting to apply to a recent publicizing in the press and on the air, of an incident involving one of the most worthwhile families in the Princeton community. A college girl, one of our young people with a previously enviable record, made a grievous mistake. Because she is a few weeks past her 21st birthday, she must face the full legal consequences of her wrong and heedless action.

Her ill-considered rashness in being curious enough to see what marijuana is like, and in letting herself be persuaded to obtain $5 worth for a friend in another college, is by no means to be condoned or excused. But the fact that she was so naive and unwary as to send it to the friend, through the mail, with a signed note, is sufficient testimony of her complete unconsciousness of criminal intent. It makes it obvious that, in the minds of these youngsters, the episode was regarded as the same kind of dare-devil prank their elders might have indulged in in obtaining illegal "bath tub gin" for a college friend during Prohibition.

The fact that both the Student Government and the girl's college gave her what amounts to a vote of confidence in not dismissing her, but having her remain, on disciplinary probation, and fished her course, is actually a testimonial to the girl's exemplary record and standing in the eyes of those who know her best and who know all the facts.

The tendency of the press to publish partial accounts, escaping the opprobrium of bearing false witness by weasel-words like "alleged" and "reported" does, in effect, sometimes amount to trial without benefit of defense or jury. Often this portion of a story is all that the public ever knows about a person involved.

This kind of thing is bad enough in the heat of a political campaign, where anyone willing to run for public office takes a calculated risk. But what possible purpose it can serve, in this instance, to publish names, and incomplete or misleading information, is difficult to see. It is not getting at the root of the problem.

It is punishing innocent members of the family it is not leading to or exposing those of criminal intent who originate or make this sort of thing possible and profit by it.

It seems desperately unfair to add to the heartbreak and devastating consequences in the life and future not only of a young person who is scarcely more than a minor, but also of her family, by the needless publicizing of an incident which, in fact, reflects disparagingly upon the schools and the community.

If, in the name of freedom of the press, or with the idea of creating a warning example, it is necessary to broadcast the affair, should it not also be brought out that the girl is known for her honesty, straightforwardness, courage, good sportsmanship, helpfulness, capability, resourcefulness and outstanding record—that she was chosen as one of Princeton's exchange students, that she had volunteered for work in the Peace Corps and been accepted until this unhappy occurrence? Should it not have been noted that her family have made a splendid contribution to the life of the community in church work, community service, and many activities in which each of its members excels—and that they have had to carry on despite recent problems in the illness and loss of loved ones which would dishearten the most stout-hearted of us, and should call forth our utmost sympathy and encouragement? If any naming of names must be done, should not the account include the background and details which give accurate perspective to the picture? Would it not have been well, before running into print or on the air, to give a thought to what must be the most definite advice we have regarding a legal indictment—"Let him who is without sin first cast a stone?" I wonder if the editors and purveyors of news, in their own conscience, can put themselves in this category.

Not For Children.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
As an infrequent movie-goer I have for years relied on the Town Topics reviews and our theatre advertisements for guidance in approving the films my children attend.

Recently I saw "Sylvia" at the Playhouse and was shocked to find a film not publicized by either your paper or the movie house as "adult fare." Was this an oversight on your part? I can't believe this picture could be considered proper for children.

JEAN S. TURNER
(Mrs. Gordon B. Turner)

Editor's Note: While "Sylvia" is not a picture for children of all ages, TOWN TOPICS reviewers have never sought to cast themselves in the role of censor, and have invariably found that what one parent finds objectionable for 12 or 14-year olds, another will accept without concern. TOWN TOPICS does seek to point the way: Its review had said in part, "The winding trail . . . leads from Pittsburgh to Mexico to California uncovering scandal and vice."

Exclusiveness Questioned.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
Last June 14 in the New York Times Magazine, there was an article on Princeton which contained the sentence "The residents of Princeton are . . . zealously intent upon thinking good thoughts, doing good deeds, promoting progressive liberal causes . . . and are more than a little pleased with their own very excellent qualities." Last week, we heard a beautiful example of this at the public meeting of the two school boards.

There it was stated that the contracts with the present sending districts should not be renewed, and there may be good reasons for this. The reasons the board actually felt were most compelling are very interesting.

Most prominent of these was a statistical comparison of the attainments of the parents of the children to be educated. Apparently they feel it appropriate to exclude children whose fathers, statistically, do not have a college education. It makes one wonder about the Princeton children whose fathers actually did not obtain college degrees.

Having established the principle of exclusiveness based on ancestry, we come to busing. Here the tone shifts and the New York Times is completely vindicated. With Senator Dirksen, I can only bow my head to the power of an idea whose time has come, and wish that the idea were more perfectly understood.

Variation on a Theme—provided by W. G. Dove in your Mailbox (Town Topics, February 25.)

In reply to the recent "A Veteran Replies" for the war in Vietnam, I should like to make the following replies:

(1) The capitalists in Southeast Asia today want the same thing that all capitalists in all places and at all times have always wanted. They simply want more. Ultimately they want everything.

(2) Their religion, which is nothing more than Capitalism itself, teaches them that the end always justifies the means chosen to attain it. This includes armed aggression which has assumed many forms in recent years.

(3) It has been demonstrated many times that there is no possibility of negotiating with any capitalist . . .

And so it goes.

She was exacting, refusing to tolerate shoddiness; but she recognized and respected the differences innate in her pupils, and she adapted her —Continued on Page 4

TOPICS Of The Town

"COME ON DOWN"
Clergy Rush to Alabama. Seven Princeton clergymen and two Princeton University professors flew to Selma, Alabama, on Monday in response to a rallying cry from the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King.

They left in odd lots and in various states of preparedness. The Rev. Albert D. Tyson of Mt. Pisgah AME Church, who was born in Selma, caught a midnight plane from Newark, without even a toothbrush in his pocket. The Rev. Dr. Donald M. Meisel of First Presbyterian took along a knapsack and a sleeping bag.

Also prepared to join Dr. King's civil rights march from Selma to Montgomery were the Rev. Dr. Robert R. Spears of Trinity Episcopal Church; the Rev. James E. Andrews, assistant to the president, Princeton Seminary and interim pastor of Witherspoon Presbyterian Church; and Rabbi Everett Gendler of the Princeton Jewish Center, co-leader of a delegation from the Rabbinical Assembly, an association of Conservative rabbis.

Also, the Rev. Rowland Cox, Episcopal chaplain at Princeton University, one of the organizers of the Princeton Association for Human Rights; and the Rev. Dudley Sarfety, who has replaced the Rev. Benjamin J. Anderson as director of the New Jersey Presbyterians' Commission on Religion and Race.

From the University, Malcolm L. Diamond, associate professor of religion and a PAHR founder, and George B. Field, associate professor of astro-physics. Dr. Field was among the hundreds of concerned citizens throughout the country who placed calls directly to Dr. King's Southern Christian Leadership Conference headquarters in Atlanta.

On Stand-by. According to the Rev. Dr. Gayraud Wilmore of Kingston, executive director of the national Commission on Religion and Race of the United Presbyterian Church, USA, "the churches have prepared over the past few months to stand with Dr. King." A telephone network was set up by both national offices of the various churches and the National Council of Churches.

"I think this call is an example of the readiness of the SCLC to call upon clergymen all over the country," Dr. Wilmore said, "and of how prepared the churches are to respond."

He added, "There probably won't be many southern clergymen in that group... I am sure, however, from my own observations, that they will consider this a kind of indirect judgement on their own ministry." He noted that many southern ministers, working behind the scenes, "have done everything they could, short of actually joining" the protest movement.

Telegrams. Adding to the groundswell, were nearly 200 telegrams sent by Princetonians to President Johnson and to the Department of Justice. "We have very civic-minded people in town," said a girl at Western Union. According to Mrs. Lucia S. Hatch of the Freedom Center, 120 individual telegrams were sent that she knew of, plus a wire signed by 88 members of the University's Woodrow Wilson Society. Forty telegrams went from the graduate college.

The hope in this concerted action, as the Rev. Mr. Tyson, Princeton Pastor's Association president, put it to his wife, is (1) moral support for the southern Negro, (2) to draw presidential attention to the Selma situation, and (3) to alert New Jersey's congressional leaders as to the sentiments of their constituents.

methods to their differences and awakened thereby in all her pupils a love of the French language and of the culture that it expresses. . .

Mrs. Wade in her attainment to the subtleties of language and of literature knew that only sensitivity to the nuances of grammatical forms and idiom could enable her students to understand and appreciate the classical French writers whom they studied, and she would have no truck with the charlatanism and ephemeral fads that constantly proclaim the discovery of a royal road to knowledge and a smooth and easy way to the mastery of linguistic complexities. Proof of the excellence of her method is given by the hundreds of her pupils, many of whom upon entering college were as freshmen admitted to sophomore classes in French and a large number of whom chose French as their major subjects.

Her devotion to (Miss Fine's) school and to its reputation for integrity, a reputation due in no small measure to the work in French in the Upper School done by her and by Miss Davis, should never be forgotten. As one who acted as a substitute for Mrs. Wade in the past and recently during her last illness, I have often wished that I had been her pupil rather than merely her contemporary.

Tax Figures Questioned

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Despite newspaper stories to the contrary, Princeton Township taxpayers face a substantial tax hike for the year 1965. The tax rate in 1964 was 3.04% and the assessment ratio was 85.45%. Multiplying one by the other indicates an effective tax rate in 1964 of 2.59%. The tax rate in 1965 is anticipated to be 5.88% and the assessment ratio is 46.28%. Multiplying one by the other indicates an effective tax rate in 1965 of 2.72%. This means that taxes in 1965 are going up 13 points.

To translate this to terms of the owner of a $30,000 house in the Township, it means that his taxes will rise $39 in 1965. A $30,000 house in the Township was assessed on the average for $25,600 in 1964. At the official tax rate of 3.04% this amounted to $778. This same house in 1965 is assessed for $13,900 and the taxes on it will be $817.

The time to complain about the anticipated property tax increase is at the March 15, 1965, meeting of the Princeton Township Committee at the Valley Road School. It will do no good to wait until August 1 when the first tax payment at 1965 property tax rates is due and object then to the Tax Collector. He is only the book-keeper who keeps track of the money Princeton Township residents have decided will be raised to finance the affairs of local government.

Princeton Township taxpayers who are concerned about the impending rise in taxes should attend the municipal budget hearing at 8 p.m. on Monday, March 15, 1965, in the Valley Road School auditorium and voice their thoughts to the Township Committee.

It is important that sentiment be expressed in favor of judicious expenditures for the health, education, and safety of Princeton Township residents, but that resistance to unnecessary and postonable spending be demonstrated. Failure to advise the Township Committee that taxpayers object to the tax hike in store for them will mean that the Township Committee will have no mandate from the taxpayers to resist the advances of pressure groups anxious to have

Editor's Note: In every New Jersey municipality this year, the tax situation has been complicated beyond the usual degree by such factors as re-evaluation and changes in the tax law. However, Township officials believe that a house valued at $30,000 last year and at $30,000 again this year, will indeed cost its owner less in taxes than it did in 1964.

RALLET TO PERFORM

At Sunday Matinee. Two guest stars will be featured in the Princeton Regional Ballet program to be presented at 3 p.m. Sunday at the McCarter. Kathryn Horne, principal dance soloist at the Metropolitan Opera, will partner with Ron Sequoia, formerly of the Metropolitan, in "Les Sylphides." Miss Horne is currently dancing the same role in New York. Mr. Sequoia is now director and choreographer for his own company, the Manhattan Festival Ballet.

The Nelle Fisher ballet, "Songs Along The River," set to music by Aaron Copland, will feature as a soloist Dorothy Pettit, a student of the Appar School of Ballet. Princetonians appearing in the ballet include Therese Donahue and Jerry Ross. Mr. Ross, a partner of Nelle Fisher for four years in New York, teaches a class in jazz dancing at the Princeton Ballet Society. He is manager of the King's Court restaurant, Witherspoon Street.

Two alumnae of the Princeton Ballet Society now studying in New York will perform with the Regional Ballet. Kathleen Hult is featured in the prelude to "Les Sylphides," and Carole Esley will dance the Ballerina in "Petrouchka" as well as a pas de deux in "Songs Along The River."

Other Princeton residents in the regional ballet are Rosemary LaPlaca, Peggy Bayer, Allissa Cawley, Barbara Koch, Nadine Marsh, Sol Leader, Mike Yates, David Rubenstein, Dan Kleinman, Thomas Carter and George Ford.

A reception and buffet supper will be held by the trustees of the Princeton Regional Ballet following the performance, honoring guest choreographer Nelle Fisher, the guest stars and members of the regional ballet company. Interested persons may make reservations by calling 921-7758 between 2 and 5 p.m. The charge for the catered supper at the Princeton Ballet Society studios, 262 Alexander Street, is $3.

ENTER, MACBETH

Sabbatical For Comedy. European comedy will wait in the wings for a time while "Macbeth," a bonus production, occupies the McCarter stage. Shakespeare will open this Saturday at 8:30 and will play a limited number of evening performances as part of

McCarter on TV

"The Forced Marriage," Moliere's farce, will be presented on Channel 5 (WNEU-TV) on Wednesday, March 24, at 9 p.m. by members of the McCarter repertory company, sponsored in this instance by the new Esso Repertory Theatre, produced by David Susskind.

The Esso Repertory Theatre is a series of 13 weekly performances featuring the country's leading repertory theatres in a wide variety of plays.

In "The Forced Marriage," Stephen Porter will direct Ruby Holbrook, Emery Battis, Sandra Macdonald, Mario Siletti and David Hooks. Actors from past seasons who will be in the Moliere, are Donald Moffat, Ann Murray, Edward Grover, Dennis Longwell and Robert Blackburn.

CORRECTION

There was a typographical error in last week's story on the school merger. If the Township builds its own high school, the taxpayer who owns a $30,000 house would pay about $45 more each year, not $455.

"SONGS ALONG THE RIVER." Dorothy Pettit, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Pettit Jr., 104 Bayard Lane, will dance a solo part in Sunday's Regional Ballet production of the Fisher-Copland work.

The regular subscription series. Nicholas Kepros, who plays the central part of Arnolphe in "School for Wives," will be Macbeth. Ronnie Claire Edwards, who portrayed the gentle Julia in "The Rivals," will be Lady Macbeth.

Clarence Felder and Mario Siletti will be Macduff and Banquo. Arthur W. Lithgow is the director.

"BIRDIE" TO BE STAGED

By Princeton High School. More than 50 Princeton High School students will take part in a production of "Bye Bye, Birdie," the successful Broadway musical. The show, the first musical comedy the high school has presented in 13 years, will be offered at 8 on March 26 and 27 in the school auditorium.

The production is under the direction of Mrs. Linda Smith and William Cook. The high school band will provide instrumental music under the direction of Jack Horner.

The cast was selected from more than 320 students who tried out. Tickets will be available at the high school beginning Friday.

SPOOKS!!

Who's Afraid? "Gabriel Ghost," a musical bit of chills and spook, will be presented at 8:30 on Tuesday, at the McCarter in the Children's Entertainment Series.

The musical tells the story of a young ghost's first assignment to haunt a house. First presented by Maximilian Productions at the Gate Theater in New York City, the play is a free-wheeling, imaginative piece about the land of scaram where spookery is a laughing matter.

Tickets are available through Mrs. A. A. Austen (924-5772) between 1 and 3 p.m. weekdays, and at the McCarter on the day of the performance. Prices are $1.50, $1.00 and 60c. The Princeton Borough Elementary PTA is sponsor.

WE PLAN FOR SUMMER

At Washington Crossing, A proposed "summer festival of the performing arts," to be held in a natural amphitheatre at Washington Crossing park, is now in the advanced planning stages by members of the Washington's Crossing Citizens Committee of New Jersey.

From mid-May until August, the Committee hopes to present at least eight different events drawing on the successful experience of last summer, when a production of Shaw's "The Devil's Disciple" attracted enthusiastic theatregoers.

This year, there will be three theatre groups: the Princeton Community Players, the Pennington Players and the Yardley Players, plus such music groups as the Princeton High School Choir, the Princeton Opera Association and a string quartet. Additional information may be obtained by writing to the Committee, Box 1776, Titusville, N. J.

PLAYHOUSE AND PRINCE

How To Murder Your Wife opens Wed. at Playhouse, Fri. at Prince) Jack Lemmon and his happy leer score in another salacious Hollywood comedy. Appearing with him are Italian-import Virna Lisi, who looks at first glance like Marilyn Monroe; Terry-Thomas as Eddie Mayheoff, two of the funniest men alive. This is fast company, but Lemmon plays with the pace.

Cast as a comic strip artist who tests out the action with live experiments aided by valet Terry-Thomas, Lemmon wakes up one morning to find that he has married the near-nude girl, Verna Lisi, who appeared in the cake at the previous night's brawl.

Appalled at his lost bachelorhood, he files for divorce and converts his comic strip secret agent into a married man getting rid of his wife. He tries to test this bit of action in real life and ends up in court. His cross-examination of his attorney, Mayehoff, in the courtroom is one of the funniest scenes Lemmon has ever done.

GARDEN

Marriage—Italian Style (Today thru, Tues.) Marcello Mastroianni hasn't much of a chance in this Italian comedy; Sophia Loren gets all the lines. She plays the part of a Neapolitan prostitute who cons a wealthy young man into settling her up in an apartment. But Mastroianni, a cad to the end, installs her in his mother's apartment as a maid, and has her run the family pastry business on the side.

Loren never lets up in this formidable and funny battle of the sexes, although Mastroianni is as adroit as the script will allow.

The film is shown with English sub-titles Wednesday through next Tuesday. English is dubbed in for the Italian-speaking cast in the version to be shown next Wednesday through Saturday, March 23.

IT'S NEW To Us

IT'S SEED TIME

Half Ounce of Parsley? It used to be that Rorer's, in Hopewell, opened the door on spring planting time with a collection of Mason jars, each one full of promise: plump peapods, golden corn spouting with juice, aromatic thyme. . . .

Well, it's somewhat different this year. The promise is still there and the millions of seeds, but the Mason jars have gone. In their place, Rorer's has neat brown envelopes in one-ounce lots.

Pay 25c for half an ounce of seed against next winter's wars. Decide which of seven kinds of lettuce you want to grow, and settle, perhaps, on Burpee's Bibb lettuce, 30c the bunch.

Four kinds of spinach to choose from, including New Zealand (The Virginia Blight-resistant seems to be the most popular, if you can judge from the number of envelopes left in the bin.)

Peas, limas and corn in one-pound packages, for about 50c. Four kinds of peas to select, and pea-planting time is no farther away than St. Patrick's Day, according to the old rule of thumb.

Burpee's Big 6, or King of the Garden would make good success, mixed liberally with any of the five kinds of corn. Onion sets are here, too, in yellow and white variety.

Housewives could get together and split one of those half-ounce envelopes of herb seed. Dill, fennel, sage, sweet basil, marjoram, thyme—share some of the fragrance with a neighbor.

Agri-co is the big garden helper at Rorer's. The lawn aerator from this firm has a pressure regulator for accuracy, and the fertilizers are pinpointed for best results. Try the 4-6-8 garden fertilizer, or the 10-8-8 for your acid loving plants like azaleas and rhododendrons. The evergreen fertilizer for foundation planting has the same formula.

"The Orient Shop"

New name, same shop. "Kung Ping," which was once translated for us as "Square Deal," is still a square deal shop, but it has changed its name to "The Orient Shop."

The location, as you know, is 15 Witherspoon Street, across from the side entrance of the First National Bank. As before, the owners of the shop are Mr. and Mrs. Chang, and as before, the stock in the shop is an intriguing mixture of east and west.

Remember "The Orient Shop" when you want to buy something a bit east of the beaten track.

Hahn-Eclipse lawn equipment is here in reel or rotary, tillers or riding mowers. No ordering necessary, you can wheel it right home.

House is important, as well as garden. Moore's paints will take care of inside and out. With Rorer's new paint mixer, you can have a latex paint for the outside of your house, choosing any of hundreds of colors for something a bit more subtle than barn red or white.

Examining Rorer's Moore-Matic paint book is like visiting a museum of op art. Colors and forms in squares and shadings are so voluminous that you'll find yourself giddy with indecision. Rorer's tells us that 1,300 different colors and shades are available, just to give you an idea.

And prices for these custom-mixed paints are the same as for colors that come right off the shelf. So how can you lose? Besides, Rorer's gives you a thick book of samples, none of this one-inch swatch business, but a full eight inches of color to match against the light and shade in your own living-room. In a day or two, Rorer's will have something new: a row of General Electric vacuum cleaners, both standing and canister styles. The truck is due any day now, so don't trade in that old vacuum until you see what GE has brought to Hopewell.

PEPPYS, IN LEATHER

And Old Noah himself. The delights of browsing in the Witherspoon Art and Book Shop are such that you may stroll home arm in arm with Samuel Pepys, or find yourself climbing the Matterhorn with Herr Baedeker.

The Pepys set now offered at W. Art and Book is Henry B. Wheatley's first transcription of the famous diaries, edited by him for 1892 publication. Nine handsome volumes in three-quarter red leather.

And here's Dean Swift himself, 23 volumes from 1755, rare as Gulliver on Nassau Street. Few sets of Swift from this era are in existence, and possession of this one will enhance your collection of rare volumes.

We like "Life in Paris," or "Dick Wildfire's Rambles, Sprees and Amours," from 1822 with 21 colored plates by George Cruikshank.

Speaking of colored plates, Witherspoon Art and Book has eight years of Godey's Lady's Books starting with 1844, all in good condition, and each one with colored, high-fashion plates. Petersen's Magazine, from 1865, is another fashion plate you'll want for your dressing table.

Our favorite, though, of all the Witherspoon books is a little catalogue for the College of New Jersey, 1859. Here's an outline of expected costs for the undergraduate: tuition, rent, fuel, library, servant's lodging and washing, $57 to $66 a session. And if you are dismissed, the whole board, washing and fuel is refunded to parent or guardian. . . . Deductible on income tax, probably. —Continued on Page 23

News Of The Theatres

THE LADY IS MACDUFF
(Junior. Of Course.) Sara Jane Lithgow was ten years old on Monday. On Saturday afternoon, when there was no matinee at McCarter and she was still only nine, she perched on the couch in her living-room, folded her hands across her red play slacks, and talked thoughtfully about her earliest theatrical experiences.

"I was not really aware of my father's work in the theatre until I was three — or perhaps, four," she began.

"Father" is Arthur W. Lithgow, McCarter's executive producer. Sara Jane is the youngest of the four Lithgow children (the rest are in late teens and early 20's), and she currently is playing the young Macduff in her father's McCarter repertory production of "Macbeth."

Macduff is only the latest in a long line of appearances Sara Jane has made in Shakespeare's plays.

"I made my debut as Pess-blossom in 'Midsummer

Newcomer: Virna Lisi, star of 25 pictures in Europe, makes her first appearance in a Hollywood film in the comedy "How to Murder Your Wife," co-starring Jack Lemmon. The movie begins this week at the Playhouse and the Prince.

Night's Dream' and since then let's see — I've been in 'Othello' and 'Merchant of Venice' and 'Merry Wives of Windsor' — but of course some of those were just walk-ons — and then last spring in 'Richard III' I was the Duke of York."

Macduff Is Best. Except for Macduff and the ill-starred young prince in the Tower, Sara Jane's Shakespeare parts have all been played in Ohio in the various productions directed by Mr. Lithgow at the Antioch Shakespeare Festival or in Lakewood. And she knows infinitely more Shakespeare than she has, so far, had a chance to play.

Sara Jane, small for 10 and built like a trim little sparrow, enjoys hugely her present role as the son of Macduff.

"I like it best of anything I've played," she says with enthusiasm, "I feel in this part more — well, more grown-up — than in any part I ever had before. It isn't such a big part, you know, not as big as the Duke of York, I guess, but I like it better."

As young Macduff she has that juiciest of all acting plums, a death scene, and reminded of this, she says, with glee, "Oh yes!"

Miss Lithgow is a dancer, too, studying ballet with the Princeton Ballet Society.

"I want very much, VERY much to be in the Princeton Regional Ballet, but I'm not old enough; you have to be 12."

Father Works it Out. However, Sara Jane's chief role is that of a fourth grader in Miss Frances Urken's class at Nassau Street School. When there is a matinee of "Macbeth," she leaves Nassau Street during lunch hour and takes the afternoon off.

"My father worked it out with the principal," she explains.

ANOTHER LITHGOW: "It's quite natural and I like it," comments Sara Jane Lithgow. About acting, that is, under the direction of her father, Arthur Lithgow. The life and times of Sara Jane in "Theatres."

reer has no appeal. "I'll always want to be in the theatre, naturally, but I don't want to be a professional actress," Sara Jane states with firmness, "I don't really know why — I just don't."

There are other parts in Shakespeare, however, which she would like to play, professional or no. "Juliet" has no appeal: "I wouldn't enjoy that part. But I'd love to do Lady Macbeth when I'm old enough and wouldn't it be fun to be a witch in 'Macbeth'!"

Shakespeare Her Favorite.
Sara Jane would be an enchanting Rosalind, and after a bit of thought, she says, yes, she would like being Rosalind.

"But really the best parts are for the men. If I were a man, I'd love to play Macbeth, or Richard the Second or Henry the Fifth" and she hugged her knees with delight at the thought. "Mostly I like to play parts where the audience just loves you!"

What about other playwrights and other roles? Sara Jane is not sure.

"You see, I've never really known any other playwright except Shakespeare," she says earnestly. "I'd never even seen anything except Shakespeare until a year ago last fall when I saw 'She Swoops to Conquer' and wasn't that a WONDERFUL play? I loved 'Hedda Gabler' too, and I might like to play that part some day."

Animals Next. Next to Shakespeare and ballet — but it's hard to know which comes first — Sara Jane loves animals. At the moment, her non-professional energies are directed, with affectionate concern, toward a trio of chickens hatched only three days before they were introduced to the press.

Sara Jane, who says she loves to assign personalities and names to animals, and who has, besides, been reading "Pilgrim's Progress," named the chickens "Valiant," "Inquisitive" and "Sensitive," and she is philosophical about the fact that "Sensitive" is really a euphemism for "Weak" and that the three chickens may well be only two by the time these words reach the public. "I could watch them for hours," she says, peering into the home-made incubator and arranging its equipment so that Sensitive won't stumble.

There is also a beloved shepherd-collie pup, a cat and an assortment of well-loved stuffed animals, but somehow the direct line always seems to go back to Shakespeare. The best loved, most obviously hugged — well, it looks like a teddy bear — is "Biraam."

"And Biraam Wood in 'Macbeth' was named for him," Sara Jane says with mischievous delight, "not the other way around!"

Breese emphasized that it was not a "hearing". Board members went into executive session. There were other planning matters to consider as well, and it was 1 a.m. before the "no" decision was reached. The two dissenters were B. Franklin Bunn and Walter B. Foster. Mr. Foster is the Township Committee representative on the Planning Board.

Basically, the Planning Board reaffirmed a sub-committee recommendation of last October, not to change the zoning on Harrison Street. Specifically, the Board declined to recommend to Township Committee the zoning change from "residential" to "commercial" that would be needed before a post office building could be constructed. In short, the Board agreed with the neighbors: keep this area residential.

However, the Board did state its willingness — and here Messrs. Bunn and Foster agreed with the rest — to sit down with post office officials and work toward a solution, because everyone on the Board agrees that a new post office facility is needed in Princeton.

"We Are Aware." Monday night's discussion was spirited, but good-humored and there was no name-calling, although two speakers expressed their resentment against a Princeton Chamber of Commerce letter to its members referring to post office opposition as "unfair, malicious and misguided."

Mr. Breese said, at the outset, that he wanted to make it clear that the Planning Board had been aware of the post office problem for some time. He went back to April, 1961, when the Board had been approached by George Warneke, owner of the Princeton Shopping Center, who wanted to incorporate a post office building into some new structures he was planning on the northern rim of the Center.

Mr. Warneke is apparently no longer interested in a post office, because he has turned down recent Federal offers. Although, Mr. Breese said at one point, no one really knows how Mr. Warneke feels on this subject at the moment.

that has escaped our attention," Mr. Breese commented. He added that the Chamber of Commerce had never consulted with the Planning Board about a post office.

The Chamber's Role. "The Chamber of Commerce wants to be only a catalyst in this matter," said Abbridge C. Smith III. "The Chamber has never advocated any special site, but the town is growing, and its service needs must take precedence over minor inconveniences. It is absolutely essential that we have a better post office."

C. A. Reiss, in charge of post office operations for this area, told the Board that the "annex" on University Place is too dilapidated for rehabilitation and the Palmer Square building too restricted for expansion.

Post office officials have considered other Princeton sites, but have found something wrong with them all, said Arthur Parsons of the department.

"Route One, near the Palmer Inn, (too far for the public, and too far from Princeton to be a central point for carriers); Route 208, near Nini Plymouth (same); Princeton Research Park, (too many hills and dales); a plot north of the Harrison Secret firehouse (topography too sharp, and owner asking a $200,000 minimum for the 283 by 250 plot).

Shopping Center? "I think you should pursue in more depth a location in the Princeton Shopping Center," observed Mrs. William Cherry, Dempsey Avenue.

Mrs. Henry Frank, 162 Valley Road, who has been a leader in post office opposition, presented a letter she had received from a Congressman Frank Thompson in which he said that the "disadvantages are outweighed by the need" and that, if Princeton did not approve this location, the post office department might wash its hands of the whole matter.

Most of the opponents cited additional traffic, the noise of trucks and, as Steven Slaby, 409 Ewing, said in a statement, "freeping commercialization." Mr. Slaby spoke of the existing residential zoning, and said that property owners expected the Planning Board to protect their residential properties.

How About Us? Perhaps the most wiseful remark in support of the new post office came from John Dilworth, acting postmaster, who lives in the Borough at 22 Stanley Avenue. "I wonder if anybody has considered the working conditions of post office employees," Mr. Dilworth said. "They work in dust and dirt in old buildings, with inadequate toilet facilities and only one table and four chairs when it's rush-time . . ."

Questioned at some length about the proposed 38 parking spaces for 85 to 90 post office employees, Mr. Parsons said that Federal policy is against providing any parking area at all for employees' cars, but that officials are willing to draw in parking space for 25% of the Princeton post office employees, if this will satisfy the Planning Board.

Presumably the next move is up to Township Committee, when it receives the Board's negative recommendation.

"This is merely a delay," commented R. L. Lenhart, who has served as head of the Chamber's post office committee. "The post office is required by law to provide good postal service, and now they may be forced into some temporary expedient, like acquiring another 'annex.' It seems to me this business of 'build a wall around Princeton' has gone about as far as it can go."

CARS CRASH HEAD-ON Driver Is Stricken. A 62-year

old Cranbury driver remains in the intensive care unit at Princeton Hospital in critical condition, a day after he suffered an apparent stroke Monday while driving on Witherspoon Street.

According to police, Norman Gorow of Cranbury Station Road, swerved into the opposite lane when he suffered an apparent stroke and struck, head on, a station wagon driven by Edward Gorski, 41, of Trenton. The mishap occurred at 9:40 a.m. near the intersection of Lytle Street.

Mr. Gorski and Mr. Gorow's wife were uninjured.

Twelve sutures were needed to close a cut on the chin of Crawford Jamieson, 216 Parkside Avenue, Trenton, which he received when his car ran into the rear of another Saturday evening on Mercer Road. Mr. Jamieson was also treated for abrasions and contusions of the left knee.

Police said Mr. Jamieson struck the rear of a car operated by Carl E. Martinson, 48, Brookstone Drive, as the latter was making a turn onto Greenhouse Drive. The impact forced the Martinson car to spin around and come to rest on the far side of the intersection.

Township Police quoted Mr. Jamieson as saying he was lighting a cigarette and failed to see the Martinson car slow down. They charged him with careless driving. Mr. Martinson was not injured.

Two Mrs. and a Hit. Mrs. Barbara C. Eavenson, 23, of Trenton, was admitted to Princeton Hospital for treatment of multiple injuries she received following a two-car collision Friday evening at 7 at intersection of Witherspoon and Hulfish Streets. In listing her condition as satisfactory, the hospital reported that Mrs. Eavenson, sustained no broken bones or fractures.

Borough police charged the other driver, Mrs. Mary Jane MacKinnon, 40, 4647 Province Line Road, with failure to yield after stopping at an intersection. Police report that Mrs. MacKinnon's car was rammed in the side by the Eavenson car traveling on Witherspoon. Mrs. MacKinnon's car then continued another 43 feet, police said, before coming to rest against a parked car.

Mrs. MacKinnon received a possible strain of a lumbar disk in her spine. Both cars were considerably damaged.

STORE WINDOW BROKEN
To Steal TV Set. Thieves broke a 12-foot plate glass window Monday night in order to steal a 6-inch portable TV set from the Singer Company outlet in the Princeton Shopping Center.

Township police found one stone inside the store, where the cabinet of a 21-inch TV set had been damaged by broken glass. A second stone was found outside the store.

The stolen set was valued at $199.50 by the manager, Wolfgang Adelhelm. He said the incident occurred between 9 p.m.

Monday and 5 a.m. the next morning. The 4x12-foot broken window was located on the mall side of the store.

Two 10" by 14" cellar window panes were broken between 1 and 7:30 p.m. Sunday to gain entry into the home of Peter M. Williams, 17 Random Road. Police said the intruder left via a cellar door, after opening a child's geology kit in the cellar which, they said, was apparently the only thing he disturbed. Mr. Williams valued the panes at $15.

A second house entering was reported by Fred Johnson, 178 Birch Avenue, caretaker for the Edgerstoune Road home of Archibald Russell.

Mr. Johnson told Township police that on Monday he noticed a glass pane in a door leading to the kitchen had been taped and broken. The door, he said, had been left wide open.

Inside, he reported finding a number of wine bottles and pieces of silver strewn about on the kitchen floor. The scene was repeated, he said, in the dining room: bottles of liquor and silver trays and pitchers placed on the floor. The only room disturbed upstairs was Mrs. Russell's bedroom, where a desk was rifled.

Police said they would have to check with the vacationing owners before they could determine what was missing. The pattern was similar to that of homes entered last week in the township: valuable items strewn about but none of them taken.

Suspects, Yes; Scotch, No.

NASSAU STREET PROBLEM: This excavation in Nassau Street in front of Hinkson's which will entomb another Public Service transformer, is so large that it forced oncoming traffic across the middle line. Tuesday, workmen started digging a trench leading from the excavation toward Witherspoon Street, which will house new duct tubes. "They'll continue a section at a time," said Borough Engineer Thomas Cawley, "backfilling as they go."

Mrs. Lillian Norton-Coleman, 81 McCosh Circle, reported the theft of a quart of scotch from her kitchen Saturday afternoon. She told police that two men from a window-cleaning firm had worked there that day. Police reported having prime suspects.

A Douglas fir tree was uprooted from its location at the end of the driveway at the home of F. C. Shorter, 915 Mt. Lucas Road, sometime Sunday and loaded, police believe, into a car or truck. The owners said they had planted the tree — which had doubled as a Christmas tree — only the day before.

From Henry Geisenhoner, Penington building contractor, Township police learned of more vandalism to a home Mr. Geisenhoner is erecting on Ramdom Road.

BUDGET PASSES

Final Approval Given. Borough Council unanimously passed the 1965 municipal budget at Tuesday night's meeting. Local taxes should remain "about the same," according to Mayor Henry S. Patterson.

Total revenues for the year are listed at $1,219,639, an increase of almost $34,000 over last year. The municipality plans to raise $502,280 by taxes, which is up $27,000 from the preceding budget.

Mayor Patterson noted, "this is a very tight budget. It has been suggested that it might be too tight." No other comments were made concerning the overall budget, and it passed without opposition.

The mayor also told Council that "A traffic survey will take place in the coming year." He was not yet sure of the extent of the project, as regards the Township and other factors.

A new bus line, which will run from New Brunswick to Trenton, was authorized on the approval of the Traffic Safety Committee. The line will run down Nassau and Stockton Streets.

The Suburban Bus Corporation will operate the new line, which will not add additional buses to the traffic situation, although it brings extended service. Previously, passengers had to change at Princeton.

An application for the use of Washington Road for another new line by Suburban Transit was rejected on the recommendation of the Traffic Safety Committee. Mr. Patterson noted that University officials had expressed an interest in discussing possible bus routes to alleviate the crowded traffic conditions on Washington.

Council also approved the rewording of an ordinance concerning the Borough's share in the cost of the new public library. "We're in agreement, it is just a problem with the words on interest payments as part of the operating costs," the mayor said.

The inclusion of interest payments in the operating costs could involve as much as $20,000 in addition to the $400,000-plus now committed by the Borough to the joint project. The operations will proceed, however, and the scheduled completion date is July 1, 1966.

Mayor Patterson reported that the Federal Housing Authority had approved construction of the housing project for the elderly without the improvement of Spruce street. The Federal government had originally demanded the work on the street, since it will be a main access to the housing project.

In his report, Fire Chief Patrick McManimon criticized press coverage of last month's fire at the Princeton Shopping Center. He noted that firemen might have been seriously hurt as they attempted to rescue animals from a burning pet shop.

The chief said newspapers took a humorous outlook of the situation. Two firemen were bitten during the rescue, one by a honey-bear, the other by a monkey.

VIET NAM GROUPS MARCH

On Palmer Square. Sign-carrying demonstrators, one group protesting the government's air strikes against North Viet Nam and a second supporting them, squared off, peaceably, last Thursday during lunch hour in the sunshine on Palmer Square.

The larger group, comprised of about 50 Princeton undergraduate students and their wives and some members of the University faculty, circled in front of 70 Nassau with placards reading, "Stop the Bombs," "Negotiate Now," "No More Bombs" and "End Bomber Diplomacy." A member of the group handed out leaflets which described its demonstration as "a spontaneous expression of concern on the part of members of the Princeton Community over recent events in Viet Nam."

A member of the group was Arno J. Mayer, University history professor, who arranged for the placing of a $3200 advertisement in the New York Times last Tuesday which advocated a policy of increased negotiation in Viet Nam. The ad bore the signatures of nearly 100 University faculty members.

Some 50 feet away, on the island in the "mouth" of Palmer Square, 13 undergraduates, members of "The Other Ad Hoc Committee," paraded in counter protest. Their signs read, in part: "Support Our Men in Viet Nam," "Peace, Yes; Cowardice, No," "Freedom Is Worth Fighting For" and "Negotiate" . . . Neville Chamberlain.

Dennis Montgomery, a student spokesman for the group, said that the committee had been formed after the appearance of the Mayer ad. The Other Ad Hoc Committee believes, he said, that the U. S. has a definite purpose in Viet Nam and that retreat at the present would be disastrous.

Both groups paraded for about an hour and a half. Each had received permission from the Borough Administrator and Borough Chief of Police to conduct the demonstrations.

TO HOLD DANCE

For Field Service. The American Field Service benefit dance will be held at Miss Fine's School Saturday from 8:30 to 12. The theme of the affair will be "Around the World in 80 Days."

Proceeds will be used to sponsor AFS students who are visiting in the United States and American students studying abroad. Tickets may be purchased at the door or at Princeton High School, the University and at Miss Fine's.

The Galaxies will provide the music and the affair will be arranged by the Junior Committee of the AFS. The committee includes Lynn Goller, Mary Moore, Gigi Godfrey, Blanche Geobel, Effie Lau, Kitz Becker, Nancy Flagg, Ann McCellan and Christy Otia of Miss Fine's; and from Princeton High, Sally Thorpe, Susan Heinemann, Gary Elton, Jonathan Ratner and Beth Locke. Stewart Israelson and John Davenport from the university are also on the committee.

A Clean-up Reminder

The Borough Engineer's office has issued a reminder that residents should remove trash and other debris from their property "for the preservation of public health, safety, general welfare or to eliminate a fire hazard."

The instructions are contained in an ordinance which went into effect two years ago this month. The ordinance calls for the removal of "brush, weeds, dead and dying trees, stumps, roots, obnoxious growths, filth, garbage, trash or debris" that is necessary to maintain the general welfare.

The engineer's office is empowered to handle the removal if the resident has not done so within 10 days. The cost of removal can then be charged to the lands and become a lien forming part of subsequent taxes. Violators of the ordinance are also subject to a $200 fine.

sonable Cost slate $600 to elect seven of its members to the newly-formed nine-member Hopewell Valley Regional Board of Education. Campaign costs for the slate during the hotly-debated school board election held in February were released by Otto C. Niederer Jr. and Walter P. Jackson, co-chairmen of the SE-RC slate.

Costs were broken down as follows: printing and reproduction, $288.55; newspaper ad, $72.50; engraving, $10; rubber stamp and pads, $16; radio commercials, $39; postage, $175, for a total of $900.05. Receipts, collected from nearly 50 citizens who contributed to support of the slate, exceeded expenses by $23.95. This surplus was divided between the League of Women Voters of Hopewell Valley and the Hopewell Township PTA.

In their statement, the co-chairmen said they viewed their success in the election as a "mandate of the electorate to maintain high standards of education and to get full value for every dollar in the budget." They reaffirmed that although SE-RC campaigned as a slate, its members are free to make their own decisions on all school matters. The Committee, they said, has since been disbanded, and its bank account closed out.

Mr. Niederer and Mr. Jackson also pointed out that many important decisions will have to be made before July 1 when the new Regional Board of Education assumes full control. Suggestions or recommendations which will help the new board carry out its mandate and which will contribute toward a better school system will be welcome, they said.

"LET'S GET MOVING"

On Two Wheels. An informal, free-wheeling discussion on bicycles was held Sunday evening at the home of Charles K. Agle, Princeton architect whose enthusiasm for the bicycle has led him to urge a network of bicycle paths in the Princeton community. (See TOWN TOPICS Feb. 25)

As a result of the meeting, both Princeton mayors—Henry Patterson of the Borough and Carl C. Schafer of the Township—have asked their engineers to confer about a bicycle path winding along by the side of Elm Road and The Great Road.

"We chose that road," explained Mayor Patterson, "because it's going to be widened and re-aligned anyhow, and so it's the easiest one to work with at the moment."

Mayor Patterson also said that Gerald Brees, chairman of the Township Planning Board, believes that an overall bicycle plan might be incorporated into a Master Plan. Borough and Township may join to appoint a bicycle committee which would suggest locations, dimensions and finances, Mayor Patterson said.

TALK TOGETHER

They Never Stop! "I was in Sydney for three or four MONTHS before I met any boys!"

Three 17-year-old girls, soft-voiced and shiny-haired, sat in Pennington's Hill House chatting with excitement and laughter about their days as American Field Service exchange students.

The speaker was Carolyn Olden of Pennington, just returned from a year in Australia. With her were blonde Anne Chafey of Hopewell, who spent last summer in Karachi, Pakistan, and Waltraud Sedelmaier of Vienna, enrolled at Pennington Central High for the current year.

As for boys, "The Pakistani girls don't date," said Anne. "They're not in contact with boys their own age. My 'sister' did go out on a couple of parties with me, but her older brother was along. Her mother wouldn't even let her go swimming!"

And Waltraud, used to a girls' school in Vienna, said softly that she likes "the co-ed aspect of Pennington better."

Food! Another important thing was their daily fare. "I ate much more at home than here," said Waltraud. "We had dinner in the middle of the day . . . and then I would have tea with my mother."

"We don't have the things you have: meats made with something sweet, baked beans with sugar would be terribly strange for us—or meat in buns." ("She means hamburgers," one of the girls contributed.)

For Carolyn, the big thing was lots of steak—and chicken every two months. "In our family, we ate lots of soup. "In the evening, it was sandwiches or whatever was leftover. I gained 14 pounds! Another thing, we ate the continental way—no shifting the fork."

"We ate with our fingers in Karachi," said Anne, "scooped it up with pieces of bread. I got so used to it! That first meal I had when I came home—my mother was horrified!" She found that the menu with her Pakistani "family" was mainly rice and chicken . . . "with very, very, very hot spices that just burned all the way down. (I tried to enjoy it.) Our tables were loaded with fruits. Mangoes are the most luscious things in the world."

"My Day." Their days with their exchange "families" were very different. Anne lived with a well-to-do Karachi family which had 10 or 12 servants. (Caroline moaned a little when she heard this.) The household consisted of the parents, two married sons and their wives, a 21-year-old son, two sisters and the two children of the oldest son.

"We got up around 8, had tea, then breakfast. We'd arrange with the driver to take us to the bazaars to shop or visit a friend. Sometimes we'd go to a movie in the afternoon."

"At 5:30, it was tea time, with cakes and sweets. Then we took a nap, or just rested, or took a drive. We had dinner at 10 p.m. Afterwards, maybe a movie or 'ice cones.'"

For Carolyn, life in Australia was very athletic. "The British influence," she said. She lived in Pennant Hills, 15 miles out of Sydney. Weekdays she was up at 6:45, on the train for the Abbotsleigh School an hour later. She played hockey, tennis and went swimming. "The summer is what everybody waits for. Sydney has about 50 beaches."

A rare snow fall while she was there resulted in a skiing party with 20 girls from school. Carolyn was the only one who had ever seen snow.

"My 'family' was Mom and Dad, Anne 18, Alan 20, and Iain, 24, a student at the University of Hawaii. During the year, it was fantastic, we had dad's sister from Scotland, a boy from Thailand, a cousin from Perth, a cousin from England, then her brother, and an American boy. People would come and go. Her 'father' was a businessman connected with the Ford Motor Company."

Waltraud, a city girl, is still getting used to life in the country. Her American "sister" is Kristen Wedge of Hopewell. "I have to ask somebody to drive me if I am to go anywhere." Born into a musical family, she says "everybody should learn the operas."

In Vienna, she adds, "We don't have so much extra-curricular at school. But we have the clubs—so many you never know where to go first. I was always running!"

Fair & Dark. Anne discovered with a shock that a blonde is such a rarity in Pakistan "that people would follow me. They'd try to touch my hair."

"We visited some tribal areas where they'd never seen a fair person before. I fascinated them. To be fair in Pakistan is considered beautiful. A Pakistani woman will

BAN, NO; REGULATE, YES: That, in essence, is Miss Jeannie Sculerati's opinion of whether cigarette advertising should be banned on TV in this country. Miss Susan Gilwood (right) favors giving the government equal time in the matter. (Staff Photo)

Question of the Week

Question: England has banned cigarette advertising on television. Should we?

Where asked: Nassau Street.

Miss Jeannie Sculerati, 162 Snowden Lane, Student, Trenton State Junior College: I would say, don't ban it completely but regulate it a lot more. Seems like every other commercial is a cigarette commercial. I also don't think they should be allowed to make various claims they are making. Some, for instance, imply their brand won't cause lung cancer because they've got some kind of special filter. But as far as banning them completely, if you reach that point you might as well have federal regulations against liquor advertising on television — that's just as detrimental to one's health as smoking.

Miss Susan Gilwood, 33 Braeburn Drive, PHS senior: I think it should be not so much banning them but giving equal time on TV to federal reports on the bad effects of smoking. For every poster that exhorts people to smoke, I think there should be another pointing out the bad effects of smoking. I don't think banning commercials will make any difference. It's more important to have federal reports and editorials on smoking.

Joseph Esposito, 196 John Street, golf caddy, No. 1 don't believe so. Everybody smokes. You can't stop smoking. Whether you advertise them on TV or not isn't going to make any difference. All England is doing is losing a lot of money. Cigarettes give me a lift on the course. I enjoy them.

Daniel Cohen, Lourie-Love Hall, University sophomore: Yes. It's definitely a doog idea. It's beneficial to the public. My only reservation is that it is tricky business for the government to take a stand against such a major industry. However, in the Constitution there is a clause which says the government can pass any bill for the general welfare and this would definitely be for the general welfare. Even though this would set a precedent, which could be kind of dangerous in some ways, I'm still in favor of it.

John Obal, 262 Alexander Street, Obal's Garden Market: Yes, I wish they would. From a medical standpoint, I don't object because I don't think they have proven anything conclusively yet. But I do object to the manner in which cigarettes are advertised on television. It's tied in with sex too much. Always, there's a scene of a boy and girl taking a walk in the woods or together at the beach—they're not selling cigarettes, they're selling sex. And if you can sell sex, you can sell anything.

Rodney Fisher, Trenton, barber, University Barber Shop, 70 Nassau St.: No, because even though cigarettes may injure your health, the tobacco industry is one of the biggest in the country. You would be putting thousands out of work. A person has his own mind; if he wants to smoke, he is going to, whether they're advertised or not.

Peter Burley, Graduate School, economics: Actually, the situation is very different in England. The government controls all the TV stations so it's a very easy thing for them to do. It's just a matter of administrative policy. Here, as in Australia where I'm from, you would need, I believe, some sweeping change in the law. Really, I don't see how you could do it here. Be an enormously difficult thing. I'd say, it would be practically illegal for the government to do it at the moment, although I'm only guessing. So you see the two aren't comparable.

David Gates, 360 Nassau Street, graduate student: I don't think so. I feel it is up to the discretion of the individual whether he can withstand the temptation to smoke. I don't think it is something the government should get involved in.

Sener Ozahin, 1937 Hall, University Junior: Yes, I think so. I'm a foreigner and I don't like the cigarette advertising here. I think it has a bad influence on the public. Especially the instruments they use: young people, romance, vitality—I don't care for that.

James Poling, Nassau Inn, assistant manager: I don't think we should. I think if people want to smoke they will, advertising or not. I don't believe a ban would be effective.

Joseph Zatezny, Trenton, employee, Woodrow Wilson Fellowship Foundation: I think it is being considered in the U.S. right now. I believe the Pure Food and Drug Administration looks into all products that are detrimental to health and I think it has been sufficiently established that smoking could be a cause of cancer. If such a thing does happen, I feel it would make the smoker more aware of the dangers of smoking; it would reform the smoker more. I think it is a very good idea. To me, it shows that the government is concerned about the exploitation of the consumer's health.

stay in the house for about a month before she gets married to get as fair as she can. Here a tan is what everybody wants."

For Anne, the Moslem wedding was the most striking event of her stay. "It is the most fantastic thing. A wedding lasts about a week. They wear all those beautiful silks and jewelry. The bride and groom's families play music all week—full blast. Their homes are decorated with lights like our Christmas lights."

"The sari," she added, "is so graceful and feminine. The women all dress in those beautiful saris, and then when they did the twist it sort of shattered all the beauty."

Peace. "Have you ever heard of the AFS motto?" Carolyn asked. "'Walk together, talk together. O ye people of the earth. Then and only then shall ye have peace.'"

"I worked all summer to dissolve misunderstandings," Anne commented. "They judge us by Doris Day and Elvis Presley. The Pakistan government doesn't recognize the AFS and none of their students come here.

"The press in Karachi is very critical of the United States. They say, 'You are giving arms to India and India is using them against us in Kashmir.'"

Asked if they would do it all over again, Anne said "Fifteen times!" Carolyn commented, "It felt like a death sentence when I had 15 days left. My year was absolutely fantastic." And Waltraud, who leaves here in July, "A year seems so short."

"You have something to contribute for the rest of your life," Anne said for all of them.

GOSPEL SINGERS COMING
 For High School Concert.
 The Back Home Choir will appear at Princeton High School Sunday, March 21, for an afternoon concert.

The gospel singers, a group
 founded in Newark in 1956, consists of former Southerners. As a result of the choir's success, the Rev. Charles Banks, a co-founder, gathered a congregation that formed the Greater Harvest Baptist Church.

GOSPEL SINGERS: Brothers
 Jeffrey, Jeffu and Charles Banks are featured in the gospel concert to be given Sunday, March 21, in the high school auditorium.

The choir has appeared at the Newport Jazz Festival, has recorded for RCA and has performed at Carnegie Hall as well as on numerous college campuses. A year ago, the group took part in a folk sing at Dil-lison Gymnasium as part of Princeton University's junior prom week end.

Tickets for the performance are priced from $1.50 to $3 and are now on sale at the Princeton University Store, the First Baptist Church and at the parsonage, 30 Green Street. Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Zelma Tatum at 924-2992.

BUSINESS In Princeton

ANNIVERSARY MARKED
For Robert Hall, Robert Hall
Clothes will celebrate its 25th anniversary this spring, having completed a quarter century of rapid growth.

The firm now has a chain of 380 stores from Maine to Hawaii and plans to have 400
by next year. The two stores in this area are located on Route 1 and Baker's Basin Road in Lawrence Township and at 514-16 East State Street in Trenton.

Foreseeing the increase in automobiles owned by American families, the organization began opening clothing centers on highways, pioneering today's shopping centers. The chain store firm was also among the first to use saturation advertising methods.

The firm policy has been to reduce overhead expenses and concentrate on the quality of clothing apparel. The policy has permitted the company to sell at lower prices, according to Harold Rosner, the president of Robert Hall.

Mr. Rosner said that "values will be better than ever during our anniversary celebration."
The firm began in 1940 at Waterbury Conn.

REPRESENTATIVE NAMED
For Princeton Area, Francis
M. Bushnell of Elm Ridge Road has been named by Karl Weidel Incorporated, realtors and insurers, as the Princeton representatives for the firm. Mr.

Bushnell's area will also include Bucks County, Pa.

A graduate of Williams College, Mr. Bushnell has been in the real estate business in Montclair and the Oranges. He has been associated with the Curtiss-Wright Corporation and later with Johnson & Johnson in New Brunswick.

The Weidel firm has offices in Trenton, Pennington and Hamilton Square. Mr. Bushnell's will deal primarily with large town and country estates.

MARLIN TO BE SHOWN

At Cregar Motors, The Marlin, American Motors' entry into the increasingly-popular
"fastback" styling will be displayed here March 19 at Cregar Motors, Route 206.

The new Marlin hardtop combines fastback sportiness with enough roominess to seat six passengers comfortably.
Among the car's features are power-disc brakes, individual reclining seats, unitized, all-steel body construction and a choice of engines ranging up to 270 horsepower. Other options include choice of transmissions and seats.

In fastback styling, the roof lines sweep down to the bumper line. In the Marlin, a large "skylight" rear window of Solex glass is formed as an integral part of the flowing roof panel.

SUIT INITIATED

By Carter Products. Carter
Products, which has a branch office at 178 Alexander Street, has instituted suit against Eversharp, Inc., for allegedly infringing on Carter's patent on aerosol shaving lather heaters.

Carter Products manufactures an aerosol shaving lather sold under the name "Rise."
Kirby Peak, president of the firm which has headquarters in New York City, said that the patent for the heater had been on file since 1962 and that Eversharp infringed upon the idea with its Schick hot lather product.

The suit has been filed in Federal District Court in Los Angeles. Damages and an injunction prohibiting further sales by Eversharp are requested.

MORE DIALING "MAGIC"

Introduced by Bell Telephone, New Jersey Bell Telephone is making a new service called "Magical" available to area customers.

The new device can automatically dial any of 1,000 telephone numbers in position and the call is put through by pressing a button.

To record new numbers or change old ones, the customer plugs in a separate dial unit and uses it to make the adjustment on magnetic tape. The service is designed particularly for salesmen and other businessmen who make frequent calls to the same numbers.

The service costs $9.75 a month plus a $15 installation charge for a unit with a tape that has a 400-number capacity.
There is a $25 installation charge for the 1,000-number tape.

CAPRICE ON DISPLAY

At Prince Chevrolet. Caprice
Custom Sedan, the newest member of the Chevrolet family of cars, is now on display at Prince Chevrolet, Route 206.

Caprice is a luxury car. Basically, it is an Impala Sports
Sedan with additional niceties.
Such things, for example, as contour padded seats, door panels that have the look of hand-rubbed walnut, a fold-down arm rest in the rear seat and automatic switches on all four doors to control four interior lights.

Outside, decorative shields
with triple fleur-de-lis design on the roof quarters distinguish the Caprice at a glance. Other items: bright metal sill mouldings and wheel opening mouldings, special front grille treatment and rear body moulding.
The hardtop roof can be ordered in a special vinyl roof covering.

In addition to the standard 195-hp V8, there are available extra-cost optional engines ranging up to the 425-hp Turbo Jet engine. Caprice is further evidence that the gap in luxury,
in appointments, and performance between premium-priced cars and the Chevrolet is a thin

one.

RECORD SALES REPORTED
By Manpower Incorporated, Manpower Incorporated, which has a branch office at 20 Nassau Street, has reported record sales and profits for the six-month period ending last December 31.

Earnings for the six months were $1,105,600, an increase of 26.9 percent over the comparable period in 1963. The earning were $97 a share as compared to $77 for the previous year.

It's New To Us

Copies of the Nassau Literary Magazine from 1899, and various alumni addresses, including one printed in Princeton by R.E. Hornor, are also in Witherspoon's collection of Princetoniana. Prices for these pamphlets are $1 to $5.

They tell us at Witherspoon
Art and Book that the perennial best-sellers are the second-hand dictionaries of the foreign languages. But here's Noah Webster's unabridged English dictionary, from 1856; sure to be grabbed up before long.

Another best-seller is the 11th Britannica, especially the version with small-size student volumes enough in stock. One, printed in German in 1897 has some wonderful chromos of meat cuts and some very lively colored vegetables. The book doesn't look used at all, by the way. Not a single crumb or grease-spot.

Baedecker is always in demand, too, and at the moment, Witherspoon has mostly Switzerland, Germany and Italy in the old guide-books. But it's the kind of shop whose inventory changes with every customer that goes out the door—
so keep browsing and eventually you'll find volumes of just what you want.

FAR AND NEAR

East and West, Gardens lie ahead, and The Orient Shop on Witherspoon sends you out of doors with a splendid glazed garden stool, ceramic and deeply cerulean.

Smaller cache-pots, glazed,
will hold this summer's gloxinias. We found them in dark greens and blues mostly, but one is a big (14 inches diameter) rusted iron pot with loop handles on the side, and enough room inside to hold a tall little tree.

Terra-cotta flower pots flare out from a narrow base, then come back in again with a flut-ed rim. These are unglazed, and handsome enough to be set above-ground in spite of their porosity.

Warm weather will also bring out the cotton Happy Coats, especially that white one with its red medallions.
Your summer apron will be the overall in olive, tangerine, gold, lemon or grey, fashioned with bat-wing sleeves and a square neck, tied behind you with fabric ties so that your best dress is entirely protected and your hair-do, too. $2.95.

The turquoise shift with morning glories up the left side will start any day right.
$9.95.

The Orient Shop has quite an art and book corner. Investigate "The Art of Japanese Brush Painting" by Takahiko Mikami, then buy the ink and brushes and paper to go ahead on your own.

"Typical Japanese Cooking"
by Tomi Egami has the most beautiful colored photographs
—if you can cook like that,
we'll be right over. "Enjoy Chinese Cooking" is a more modest volume ($1.50) but quite as delightful for those who enjoy Cantonese cuisine.

On the nearby shelf, of course, are all the ingredients:
cuttlefish and baked fish cakes
in cans, abalone, baby clams, pickled ginger and bamboo sprouts. Teas and exotic little crackers without number. A wok for your very best cooking is up front in the window.
How can you cook, a la chinoise,
without one?

ART

In Princeton

HUGHIE LEE-SMITH
At Present Day Club, During the month of March, the Present Day Club will exhibit work by Hughie Lee-Smith, who is well known to a Princeton Community indeed grateful for his many contributions as a fine artist, teacher and active force in furthering interest here in the education, understanding and appreciation of Art.

He is on the faculty of Princeton Country Day School,
The Studio On The Canal, and a key member of the Princeton Art Association.

Since 1930 in Cleveland, his biography has been crammed with studies and experiences pertaining to his profession.
Given his physical and mental vitality applied to his own individual expression, it is small wonder that he has become warmly recognized throughout the country.

He has shown in many of the most important exhibitions
in the USA and in traveling shows as far afield as behind the Iron Curtain with the USIA. His work is in numerous private and Museum collections and he has won countless prizes for freehand drawing, lithography and oils.

Painting. As a painter, he puts a strong message into a strong technique. It's too bad that at the Present Day Club,
he shows only one painting;
the rest of the pictures are drawings. The one land-sea-

WE, THE JURY: Jurors and a trustee of the Princeton Art Association gather for a group portrait. The P.A.A. is offering to the Princeton public its first "Selected Member Show" on view until April 10 in McCarter Theatre. Mrs. Helga Neergaard, P.A.A. trustee, confers with (left) Mario Cooper, Harold Alexander and Chen Chi.

scape steals the show. It contains all the elements which make his painting his own, and then ours.

Primarily, he has a sense of the dramatic. He has the ability to create a mood: poetic,
sometimes lyrical, and then to add the dramatic moment in a figure. Nothing is overdone;
in fact, some people find his method stark. But in this very simplicity is the tension and the desired effect which carries through.

Drawings. Among the drawings are landscapes and figures done in line with wash, pen and ink or conté. The figures would seem to be studio or class-studies and, as such,
are fairly academic. Still, they reveal a nice feeling for form and movement and have a happy emphasis on certain details which produce a casual,
but again his dramatic effect.

These drawings are only slight descriptions of the artist's stature. The heart of the matter is his painting and Princeton deserves a whole show of paintings by Hughie
Lee-Smith in the near future.
(The Club will be open to the public on Monday afternoons
this month, and on other days
by appointment.)

West Coast Graphics. In the February show at Gallery 100,
we were treated to a very definite expression and use of the serigraph by Gregorio Prestopino. In the March show, called
"West Coast Serigraphs," Gallery 100 continues the discussion of this medium as developed by a group of California artists. Their experiments to find flexibility, variety and the qualities of the "original" rather than working in the limitations of the conventional reproduced
"print" have resulted in a broad range or survey of this graphic art.

The artists chosen here were selected to describe this range.
From the severe and reserved tonal compositions of Roger Hollenbeck we can go to the abstract landscape of R. A.
Smith who gets a lovely paint-quality in his gentle blooming "Orchard." There is sustained formalism in the Still Lifes of Freeman Worthley but a riot of too much color in "Sienna II" by Bob Click.

Allegory weaves through the serigraphs of Jean Brotche whose interpretations of "The Thousand and One Nights"
we remember from the Christmas show. We are carried farther into the realms of romance by the splintered light and forms of Dorothy Bowman's buildings in atmosphere and season. Howard Bradford lets his birds and horses emerge in a play of light and shade in "From The Beach," which shows remarkable versatility in technique and color, in light and dark, he proves the point that a print can be un-printlike and altogether original. As advertised, "the new freedom" in serigraphy is here to see.

Japanese Woodcuts. With no connection to the overall theme, coming from so far west as to become "East" and from over a century ago, but important up to the minute
are the woodcuts by the famous Japanese Katsushika Ho-kusai. This little group of figures in landscape may seem dim in comparison to the 20th century efforts, but as a part of print history which strongly influenced the art world of Van Gogh and Degas and Nanet with its concept of composition and still fascinates people today, the work of this revered artist holds great interest at any time. March 8 to 28.

sored by the Princeton Art As-

TIGERS TOP PENN STATE

On Defensive Basketball. Some 40 years ago, Princeton and Penn State met in basketball twice here, the Tigers winning the first, in 1922, and the Nittany Lions the second, five years later. The respective scores were 22 to 19 and 30 to 23.

They finally got around to playing the rubber game in the series Monday night in the Palestra. Despite the passage of four decades and a whole bunch of new-fangled approaches to the game, such as eliminating the outer jump after a field goal, one-handed jumpers from 30 feet out and a crazy innovation known as the one-and-one, there was considerable similarity to the game as it was played in the '20's in the University's old gymnasium, which had a board track for a gallery.

The final score was 60 to 58. Princeton, and the Tigers won as teams used to: on better defensive basketball and superior ability to set up plays that waited for one good shot. Fascinatingly enough, they beat the highly-respected team from University Park, Pa., on the two principal counts which had been responsible for its fine 20-3 record and 13 consecutive victories.

Penn State had rolled over one opponent after another largely because it played extremely good defensive basketball (ranked 11th in the U.S. in fewest points allowed) and committed very few fouls. In the latter category, the Lions were a startling fifth nationally.

Tigers in Control. In the waning minutes of the game, however, it was Princeton which had a clear-cut edge on both counts: its defense forced Penn State to shoot before that one good shot was available, and—in contrast to the losers' foul problems, which had put the Tigers in a one-and-one situation well before the clock began to run out, Princeton never even reached six team fouls in the decisive second half.

Penn State Coach John Egli, understandably somewhat disconsolate after the game, felt that his team beat itself and that "it wasn't Bill Bradley who did." But some one who had a strangely similar appearance to the Tigers' All-American burst the bonds of pressure by pouring 13 points through the net in the last eight minutes, and directing an alternating freeze and tight defense that saw the Orange and Black coast in the comparative luxury of a four-point lead for all but the last of the final hectic 30 seconds. A buzzer basket narrowed the final margin to two.

The first-half advantage sawed, Princeton scoring first on a typical Bradley feed to Bob Haarlow for a quick layup and the Lions leading by four soon thereafter. Princeton came back to tie, dropped behind briefly and then led by as much as five before settling for a 31-28 margin as the period ended.

When play resumed, the Tigers' sudden seven-point (42-35) margin vanished almost as quickly as it had been compiled. Outside shooting that had been spotty clicked for Penn State together with a pair of steals, and the Lions appeared ready to show how they had compiled one of the finest records in the nation.

At no time, however, could they achieve domination of the close-guarding contest. The Tigers battled back to a tie six times, and as the final three minutes began to tick off, Ed Hummer, Bradley and Don Rodenbach all came up with spectacular baskets. Rodenbach's was achieved on a steal after Penn State guard Bob Weiss tripped on a simple in-bounds play, and the resultant uncontested layup virtually sealed the outcome.

No better than 7-for-22 from the floor, Bradley added 8 of 9 fouls for 22 points—six more than any other player in the low-scoring contest. Rodenbach's 12 were invaluable. Haarlow also climbed into double figures with 11, while Ed Hummer came off the bench early and contributed so much (including 9 points) on both offense and defense that he never relinquished his position.

N. C. State Next. Now it's on to College Park, Maryland, where the University of Maryland's 12,000-seat auditorium will host the quarter finals. Princeton's opponent Friday night (game time, 7:30 p.m.) will be North Carolina State, surprise victor over Duke in the Atlantic Coast Conference playoffs. Lacking the tight defense that Penn State has, the North Carolina quintet will have its problems stopping the still-improving Tigers.

Monday night's other victors in the Palestra, will meet in the other game. Saturday's pairing will pit Friday winners and losers against each other, so that Bradley still has at least two more games before closing out his career. He is now the third highest scorer in the history of college basketball (see box, page 31.)

FINAL GAME MEMORABLE

Long Ovation for Bradley. Bill Bradley was withdrawn from the last home game of his Princeton career with 38 seconds left to play, but a couple of time outs and numerous foul shots prolonged the end of the contest by several minutes. The crowd of more than 3,000 last Wednesday cheered until it was out of breath, and then simply kept applauding until the game finally ended. So loud was the ovation even after the buzzer had sounded that it required three appeals over the public address system to bring quiet so that a presentation marking his final game in Dillon Gym could be made.

Undergraduate Council President Mike Smith, as master of ceremonies for the brief program, told Bill how much he had meant to those who had watched him, and how much he had done for Princeton through his fine blend of outstanding ability and conduct.

Then they gave him the clapper from the Nassau Hall bell, mounted on a suitably inscribed plaque. It was symbolic of what they think of Bradley around here: others who have Nassau Hall bell clappers have had to plot and scheme and work for hours to elude the constabulary in attaining the coveted trophy. Bradley, being the guy he is, got it handed to him on a silver platter with Bill Lippincott, Dean of Students, on his feet applauding loudly.

Game Itself Was Routine. Save for the fact that Princeton wanted to make sure it won Bradley's last game here, there was little or no importance to the post-championship contest with Penn. The Tigers had wrapped up all the drama and the title in roaring to their 107-84 conquest of Cornell four days earlier, and this meeting was purely in the nature of an exhibition. Developments were, accordingly, about as expected. A loose Penn quintet, with far less at stake than Princeton, moved out briefly to a six-point lead but saw its margin vanish as the Tigers' new-found balance began to tell.

It was 39-27, Princeton, at the half, with Bradley and Bob Haerlow already in double figures and Junior Don Rodenbach with 8. Big Robby Brown had 7, and his Quaker counterpart, 6-8 John Hellings, had sat out a considerable portion of the first 20 minutes with three fouls picked up under the basket—where there always appear to be far more arms and legs than the number of players present makes logical.

The second half saw the Tigers maintain a lead that was never less than 9 and only once as high as 14. They settled for 10—an 81-71 victory, and while it was noteworthy as Bradley's last game, it also marked the tenth straight season that Pennsylvania—often with some pretty good basketball teams—has failed to win in Dillon Gym.

Typically, Bradley was anything but a showboat in his last Princeton contest. He made 5 of 11 from the floor, adding 9 for 30 from the foul line, and his 19 points equalled his low output for the season. He picked off ten rebounds to help control play for his team and largely contented himself with feeding others for good shots. As a result, all of the starters save Gary Walters, plus reserve center Ed Hummer were in double figures.

Bradley's final Ivy game is probably best symbolized in the record book by these statistics: the former career record for 42 games was 864 set by Pete Campbell '62. Bradley's total of 1253 for 42 games is almost half again as great.

Every other major Ivy scoring record came his way before the end of his junior year. Unless the scoring rules are changed, or the colleges find themselves so deep in persimmon that they play 48 minutes instead of 40—as the pros do—Bradley's name may remain in the Ivy record book well into the next century.

winter to Dartmouth, thus broke an 11-year skein that had seen either the Indians or Harvard win the title every season since 1953. That, incidentally, was the last year Princeton won under the captaincy of Hank Bothfeld.

So eager was Brown to make sure of the championship, which got away from it in 1964 when Dartmouth rose all the way from last place to first in the course of a single season, that the Rhode Islanders rocketed to a 6-0 lead in the first 13 minutes at Providence Saturday night. It was 8-2 at the end of the two periods and a four-goal outburst finished the Tigers off.

Princeton thus completed its season with victories over Middlebury, Penn, Dartmouth in a non-league game, RPI, Yale and St. Lawrence. These five victories were offset by 17 defeats, nine of which against Ivy opponents meant last place in the league standings.

Hope is never quenched at Baker Rink, and belief is that the combination of unusually light graduation losses and a better-than-average freshman team will provide the basis for marked improvement next winter. Of the Tiger squad which finished the season, only two—Captain Em Hall and Bob Clarke—are seniors.

PHS IS ELIMINATED

In NJSIAA By Cranford. All good things must come to an end, they say, and the good thing Princeton High had going for it in the NJSIAA tournament disappeared Friday night moments after the start of the final period in its Group 4 clash with Cranford. Until then, PHS was in the process of recording its second straight upset in the tourney, but whereas its triumph over Rahway last week created only a minor tremor, had it overthrown Cranford as well, the shock-wave would have carried state-wide.

Prior to their meeting, Cranford has won 21 of 23 PHS 12 of 23. Cranford's center, John Dreyer measured 6-8; Princeton's tallest player was its 6-3 captain, Pyle Heiberger.

Yet the Little Tigers scored six straight points at the outset of the final period to take a 59-57 lead. Could they hang on? No. Dreyer accounted for the next eight points. From there the Little Tigers cracked under the relentless pressure of Cranford's superior height and scoring power. The victors went on to outproduce the Blue and White in the final showdown period, 25 to 14. The final score: Cranford, 82; Princeton, 67.

Despite the outcome, Coach Tony Borzok's team could hold its head high in defeat. For all but seven minutes, the losers were magnificent. In going out with its boots on, the Blue and White ended with a 12-12 mark overall. In regular season's competition, it was even—seven, too with a 10-10 mark.

Top scorer for PHS was Wilbur Hines with 22. Thus Wilbur, who has been elected captain of next year's team, ended as he began: with a 20-plus performance. The 390 points tallied by Hines this season exceeded by four the total compiled by Heiberger, who played in one less game.

Trailing Hines were Heiberger with 18 points and Colin Leitch with 13. As they did in this final game, this trio accounted for the bulk of Princeton's scoring all year.

Final figures reveal that Leitch emerged with the best average, 17.0 in 20 games. Heiberger was second at 16.7 and Hines third at 16.3. Adding up, they accounted for 50 of the 67.3 points PHS averaged in its 24 games this year.

S·D·B. talks
it over..

By JOHN F. BERNARD

Twenty-five years ago one-fourth of the population were rural dwellers. The 1960 census shows that less than 10 per cent of today's citizens are farmers. . . The diallingest people in the U.S. are in Beverly Hills. That city has 92 phones per 100 people. The Capitol is next with 83 and San Francisco comes next with 71. . . If the present rate of increase continues the world population will double to close to 5½ billion by the end of the century. And you think parking is bad now! . . .

Increasing population and other congestive factors make it all the more imperative that you have proper insurance coverages. Don't guess . . . never take chances . . . either you have the right coverages or you don't. Let an agent from STURHAHN, DICKENSON & BERNARD, 15 Chambers Street, guide you and set up the proper policies. Phone 921-6880. "Always Remember Fair Claim Settlement is Our Most Important Product."

INDOOR TENNIS BEGUN
First Club In Area. The Princeton Racquet Club, the first indoor tennis club in the Princeton - New Brunswick area, has been opened on Raymond Road in South Brunswick Township. The club has easy access from U.S. Route 1 or New Jersey Highway 27. Completed earlier this year, the facilities are available to the public from 8:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. seven days a week. All playing periods for the current season have been reserved and applications for the upcoming season are being accepted.

For spectators, the building contains a knotty pine lounge with a large fireplace. The room affords a view of the tennis matches which are played on a surface of cove-turf.

At the opening ceremonies members of the Princeton and Rutgers tennis teams played an exhibition match. The next regular season for area residents will begin in October and continue through April.

The idea for the court was suggested by John Conroy, the Princeton coach, and Mrs. Eve Kraft of Princeton. Those wishing further information may call 246-1211.

HUN WINS STATE TITLE
By Defeating Farragut, The Hun School basketball team reigned supreme this week as champions of the state in the Group 3 private schools division. To reach its lofty pinnacle, Hun edged Admiral Farragut, 56 to 55, last Wednesday at the Lawrenceville School gymnasium.

Fittingly, the winning basket was scored by Scott Page. It came in the final three seconds and it was Scott's 29th and 30th points. For the Trenton resident, it was the climax of two standout years at Hun, culminating in being named twice to the first team of the central New Jersey's All-Prep School team chosen by Trenton's two daily newspapers.

The championship contest with Farragut progressed from a Farragut lead to a Hun lead to a cliffhanger. Hun trailed, 7-0 and 12-4, early in the game before coming on to take a 13-12 edge at the end of the first quarter. Hun continued to pull away until it led by as many as 12 in the third stanza.

Then it was Farragut's turn. After Hun's high-scoring center, Mike Miller, fouled out, the future admirals pecked away. A three-point play by Farragut's center with 30 seconds to go gave it the lead for the first time in the second half, 55-54.

In its race with the clock, Hun managed to get the ball to Page, but his shot was blocked. However the resourceful Page retrieved his own shot and scored on a twisting layup with three seconds to go. The losers got one more shot up but it hit the rim.

Half A Loaf. As it was, Hun had to settle for the state prep title because the Penn-Jersey League crown finally eluded it. Bryn Athyn, which had to take all three of its final league games to win it, did just that as Hun looked on helplessly from the sidelines. Bryn Athyn finished with a 10-2 mark; Hun with a 9-3 effort.

"We didn't get any help at all," said Hun coach Bob Simpson. "I was really surprised when Bryn Athyn won all three, but we beat them once this year, so we have some satisfaction from that."

"I think winning the state championship is a bigger thrill to me than winning the league championship would have been," Simpson added. "The last time Hun won the state crown was in 1952—13 years ago. Our 9-3 record was our best finish ever in the league, so all things considered, I'd say we didn't do too badly."

At Hun's winter sport's banquet held Saturday at Princeton Inn, Simpson selected sophomore Howard Levine for the coach's award, symbolic of the player who has shown the most desire to improve his ability. The players, in turn, presented Simpson with a sterling bowl with "State Championship" inscribed on it.

Tigers on TV Again

Princeton basketball fans hopeful of seeing Bill Bradley play again before his career ends will be able to this weekend—at least once, possibly twice.

As TOWN TOPICS went to press, the University's Department of Athletics was completing arrangements to have the North Carolina State - Princeton game televised on Friday from College Park, Maryland, Channel 5, New York, at 7:30 p.m.

If Princeton wins Friday, it will also be on Channel 5 Saturday night at 9:30. If it plays St. Joseph's—in either the first or the second game Saturday—there is a possibility the contest will be on Channel 6, Philadelphia.

"PLAY BALL" NEARS

For Midget League. The Princeton YMCA will once again promote a Midget Baseball League.

The program, designed for boys between 10 and 12, will soon be starting its 16th season, but before the cry of "play ball" sounds, players must first obtain contracts. These will be available in most borough and township schools by Friday. They may also be obtained at the Y office on Avalon Place.

In order that teams may be drawn up, all player contracts must be returned to the Y office by March 24. On the 29th, there will be a meeting of all managers at the Y, and on April 3, there will be an all-league meeting of players and managers at the Y building.

TWO GIRLS ADVANCE

In Swim Competition. Nancy Burroughs and Patricia Hector, members of the Princeton YMCA Flying Fish Club, have qualified to participate in the Central Atlantic Area Swimming Championships. This weekend, in the YMCA Northern Swim Division Championships, Nancy placed first in the 13-14 100-yard backstroke, and Patricia won the 13-14 100-yard breaststroke event.

Other Princeton swimmers to receive recognition were Susan Arnbarger and Amy Schoch who teamed with Nancy and Patricia to finish fourth in a medley relay. A second medley relay team, comprised of Valerie Stone, Kathy Bamford, Jennifer Largey and Sally Hennehan came in fifth. Amy placed fifth in the 200-yard individual medley.

In the 9-10 grouping, Amy Cook placed fifth in the 25-yard butterfly. Relay teams made up of Carey Bolster, Joanne Swartz, Amy Cook and Phyllis Golden and Carey, Joanne, Amy and Martha Lasley finished fifth and sixth.

GIRL PLEADS GUILTY

Charge Reduced. Susan Heiberger, 100 Longview Drive, pleaded guilty in Ithaca, N.Y., Friday to a disorderly conduct charge stemming from an investigation of narcotics sales at Cornell. She is a senior there. Originally, Miss Heiberger had been charged with the felonious sale of marijuana, and had pleaded innocent. The district attorney of Tompkins County, in which Ithaca is located, accepted the plea of guilty to the lesser charge of disorderly conduct. No date for sentencing has been set.

TO CHECK SEWERAGE

In Rocky Hill. Every property in the Borough of Rocky Hill will be inspected, starting Monday, by the Borough Health Officer, Mrs. Marcella Farley.

Mrs. Farley will check yards for surface moisture and enter each house to dye-test the system. The inspection grew out of the discovery that one well in the Rocky Hill system is contaminated. A new water pump will be installed in the next two weeks, and residents of Rocky Hill have been notified by Borough Council that water consumption must be kept at a minimum during the two days of installation. Notices will be posted.

Council has approved a $34, 813 local government budget for local government.

Revenues include $4,900 surplus in water utility, $7,000 in franchise and gross-receipts taxes, $9,118 in state road aid, $11,300 surplus from the previous year and miscellaneous money from other sources.

The largest item in the new budget is $11,250 for street maintenance, construction, lighting and snow-ploughing, followed by $6,509 for "general government" elections, salaries for clerks, assessor, tax collector, legal fees, audit and Social Security.

Rocky Hill's tax rate probably be $5 per $100 assessed valuation, which means that, for each $10 of taxes paid in 1964 on a new house, about $10.50 must be paid in 1965. Older homes will pay about $11 on this basis.

INN IS RATTERED
By Vandals. The Princeton Inn was raked over early Sunday morning by vandals who broke, stole and damaged. Stephan Yuhas, resident manager at the Inn, told Borough police that someone walked through the Alexander Street hotel about 3 in the morning and did the following damage: broke three vertical hallway lights, peeled wallpaper off a wall in the north wing, smashed three windows in three separate rooms, shattered glass in outside storm doors and stole a water color painting of the Graduate School and a fire extinguisher. The extinguisher was found the next day on campus near Henry Hall.

BERMUDAS IN BERMUDA: Shorts are the order of the day for these members of Princeton Kiwanis who celebrated the 50th anniversary of the organization by visiting Hamilton, Bermuda and trying to convince the natives that Kiwanis ought to have a Bermuda chapter. Lenhart, chairman of the New Club Building Committee; Michael Fountain, of the Bermuda Trade Development Board; Dr. Russell Edmonds, past president of the Princeton Club; Mayo Mernone, past secretary, and Anthony Brazill of Travellex, examine a decorative map of Bermuda which was presented to the Princeton Club by Mr. Fountain.

Prom Weekend, told police that between 7 and 10:30 p.m. Saturday, a thief stole money and jewelry from her suitcase. Miss Sterlinger said she had left her case on the second floor of Ivy Club where she was staying.

Taken were $22 in cash, a $5 check, three bracelets, a gold pin and a necklace. Miss Sterlinger placed an approximate value of $200 on the items.

Convertible Tops Cut. Two convertible tops were slashed and two others damaged last week, Borough police said.

Most seriously vandalized was a 1965 convertible parked behind Andy's Diner, 173 Nassau Street, owned by Raymond A. Beck, 172 Nassau Street. Mr. Beck reported that his car's top was cut and ripped off, its antenna snapped and its hood sprayed with white paint. Police later found the paint can nearby.

The same night... last Tuesday... and the same place... a parking shed at the rear of the diner... again provided time and place for top-slashing. Miss Suzanne Kidd, 162 Nassau Street, called to report that her 1904 convertible top had been slashed in a number of places. Police added that a convertible parked in the Princeton Hospital parking yard had had its top smeared the same day with red paint and its left door dented.

On Sunday, James J. Flynn Jr. of Perth Amboy, a student at Rider College, complained to police that a group of students threw stones on his Thunderbird convertible parked in front of Cannon Club. One, he said, pushed his fist through the top. Mr. Flynn placed the time of the incident at 2:45 a.m.

THREE ARE FINED
For Improper Passing. Three Princeton drivers, all charged with improper passing, were among those fined in Borough Court Monday by Magistrate Theodore T. Tams Jr. Fined $15 each on the passing violation were James E. Loder, 33 Hibben Road; Wen Fong, 34, 38 Adams Drive; and Jonathan G. Bonner, 17, 148 Mercer Street. All pleaded guilty.

Also fined $15 were John J. Markham 2nd, 17, 139 Broadmead, for speeding, and Richard L. Montgomery, 22, 121 John Street, unlicensed driver. Robert J. Rafalowski, 36, N. Greenwood Avenue, Hopewell, paid $12 for a stop sign infraction.

In criminal court, three charges of check forgery against Mrs. Trudy Jezequel, 28, 116½ Leigh Avenue, were dismissed for lack of prosecution. The complainant was Mrs. Jezequel's husband, Louis Jezequel.

A fourth charge issuing a worthless check lodged by Grover C. Tash Jr., a Lytle Street liquor store owner, was dismissed for the same reason. However, the court ordered the defendant to pay $10 court costs on each of the four charges.

Another worthless check complaint by Mr. Tash against Lester L. Walker III, 24, 250 John Street, was dismissed. Mr. Walker pleaded not guilty.

Last Wednesday in Township Court, Magistrate Glenn B. Miller Jr. fined Mrs. Lillian C. Green, 51, 4 Greenwood Avenue, Kingston, $15 for careless driving.

FAMILY NIGHT TUESDAY
At Witherspoon School. Sponsored by the Princeton Borough Elementary PTA, a family night program will be held Tuesday at the Witherspoon School, starting at 7:30. Parents and sisters and brothers of all the students are invited.

Everyone will gather in the auditorium to hear a program consisting of bell ringers, a tumbling act and a cello and string ensemble. At 8:15, the program will be continued with activities in separate rooms. Guests may choose among rooms exhibiting science, Junior Red Cross, home economics, basketball and others.

By Archimedes (Bernard)

Our business is "beauty." We want our customers to have normal, healthy skin and hair. Your skin and hair are among your most prized possessions. To help keep them in tip-top condition, they need care. We firmly believe that the "protein" products offered by RED-KEN will be just what you are looking for. P.P.T., "S-77" is a hair and skin conditioner, and FEEDS the skin and hair as well as the body.

At TAVERNWOOD we offer you a BOOKLET which presents a number of "home cosmetics" formulas. For example:

The MAKE-UP BASE recipe listed below is very effective for dry skin, helps prevent enlarged pores (use generously around base of nose and under chin), conditions and beautifies skin as it keeps makeup on all day:

1/4 teaspoon P.P.T. "S-77"
1 1/2 oz. water

Blend well.
Apply to face thoroughly with pad of cotton. Smooth on with fingertips. Allow to dry and apply makeup. No other base needed. Keeps powder, rouge or liquid makeup on all day.

Apply to eyelashes with old mascara brush, allow to dry. Apply mascara (cake or liquid). Holds mascara on all day and increases strength and length of lashes. Prevents breakage. Apply to eyelids and generously to corners of eyes. Rub in gently until dry. Keeps eye makeup on all day.

The P.P.T. herein referred to, and used in ALL of RED-KEN cosmetic formulations may be purchased in our TAVERNWOOD BEAUTY SALON for a nominal price in 1 oz. containers. Make Your Crowned Glory worthy of its name! Visit TAVERNWOOD at 59 PALMER SQ. WEST or CALL 924-3993.

News Of The CHURCHES

MORE PROJECTS PLANNED

By Unity Committee. The success of the recent "Ephesians Study" has encouraged the Princeton Christian Unity Committee to plan for 1965-66. Their pioneering venture in grass-roots ecumenicity drew a response far beyond their bravest hopes.

Projects discussed at the past two Monday meetings at Trinity Church include (1) a study of comparative religions next fall, including group visits to the various churches; (2) another Bible study series next winter among the 10 churches; and (3) a major meeting in the spring to discuss the points of disunity. Miss Natalie Vaughan of Trinity was convener.

"The Tough Issues." The PCUC wonders "if we are ready to discuss the Apostles' Creed, or Baptism, or the Lord's Supper" on an inter-denominational basis.

As the Rev. Walter D. Wagner put it to the committee, "We weren't really facing the disunity in the Ephesians Study. We were skirting it. You can't omit biting at the really tough issues."

"We haven't been able to work out the Baptism issue ourselves," a PCUC member inserted wryly. A subcommittee had struggled for nearly a year to develop an ecumenical They gave up, and the child they gave up and the child was baptised in the First Presbyterian Church.

Ephesians Study. All things considered, the PCUC is understandably elated by reaction to the Ephesians Study. For the first time in Princeton, or anywhere else, as far as they can ascertain, a mixed bag of Methodists, Presbyterians, Baptists, Episcopalians, Lutherans and a handful of Roman Catholics met together for Bible study. Some 536 laymen met for six weeks in groups of 15 or 20 in neighborhood homes in Princeton, Kingston, Rocky Hill, Hopewell, Nassau Estates, Penns Neck and side roads between.

For the first time in Princeton, the Protestant pastors of 10 churches studied the Bible together. Serving as co-sponsors of the project, they chose Paul's Letter to the Ephesians for the study. Their Sunday sermons were based upon an agreed-upon text.

The dual phenomenon nearly scuttled the PCUC with paperwork and organization details. But steady attendance at the neighborhood meetings and a stack of a completed questionnaires asking for more

"THERE WERE NO DROP-OUTS!" reports a member of the experimental "Ephesians Study" which linked churches and homes across denominational lines. Above is one of 32 study groups: (from left) Mrs. J. Taylor Woodward, hostess; Miss Isabelle Stauffer, Manfred Piper, Dr. Charles R. Erdman, Mrs. Erdman, Mrs. Colie Herron, the Rev. Richard Thomas, resource person; Mrs. Piper and Mrs. Suzanne Kirt. The convener, Morgan Harris, was ill the evening the picture was taken. (Story this page)

have spurred the PCUC to try again.

"In Our Group." The questionnaires contain such comments as "I liked the absence of denominational horn blowing" and "In our group, discussion began with Ephesians but soon broadened." "I liked the give and take."

Others wrote: "The daughter of our hostess attended the meetings, and we believe that teenagers and college students should be encouraged to participate. Their questions make us all think."

And again, "what about other kinds of cooperative enterprises, such as inter-denominational service projects in East Trenton?" We should have Catholics and Jews participate in the next one. "We should have more Negroes in this... this is a defect of your neighborhood grouping."

People are suggesting study of comparative religions, analysis of the Church of South India, the Gospel of Mark, a cooperative vacation Bible school for adults, a Judeo-Christian study group and "anything that will help the dialogue between denominations."

Requests include "spreading the Seminary talent around" in the next study (all participants assume there will be one); a Princeton lay action group which furthers cooperative efforts of the denominations, and longer sessions. "Two more weeks would have been good for the group dynamics process." Discussion leaders feel a need for a greater knowledge of the Bible.

From all of this, the Ephesians Study unit of the PCUC will forward a summary to the Princeton Pastors' Association and request approval of next year's projects.

PCUC Party. Putting first things first, however, the PCUC has firm plans for a party on April 19 at one of the churches. "It'll be just one big celebration!" All 536 participants in the Ephesians Study will be invited. Typically, the PCUC guesses about 125 will come.

"This brings us to the problem of what will we serve to drink?"

"Now we'll get in a real ecumenical mess!"

PCUC members active in the Ephesians project are Natalie Vaughan of Trinity, convener; Michael Pradervand, Lucy M. Bilheimer and Rev. Mr. Wagner, all of First Presbyterian; Muoroe Wade, St. Paul's; Glenn Freyling, Methodist; Morgan Harris, Witherspoon Presbyterian; William D. Skipworth, First Baptist; Jean C. Maxwell, Calvary Baptist; Harry F. Succop, Bonnie Wagner and Ulli Steltzer, all of Messiah Lutheran, and George E. Lewis, All Saints' Chapel.

The Rev. Mr. Cox, a graduate of Harvard and General Theological Seminary, served for five years at St. Thomas's Church, Point Hope, Alaska. He was responsible for enlistment and training of workers for the Overseas Department of the Episcopal Church for several years prior to coming to the University in 1961.

Cary S. Kammler

We were told that the superior expression on a cat is justified because his ancestry goes further back than ours. Domestic cats were present in the most ancient civilizations and it is believed they derive from European Wildcats. In Egypt they became their most sacred animal. Experiments prove them to be highly intelligent, with remarkable memory, reasoning power, a strong sense of companionship, and they cannot endure restraint. They are emotional even to the point of weeping, or actually smiling. Sick cats usually will accept alcoholic liquors, and when well are easily affected by love and gentleness, but rough treatment can achieve nothing with them. Obscure facts about so commonplace an animal remind us frequently we can be in the dark about everyday affairs, such as a fine place to do business, with top values and terrific service. Your own experience will prove we are just such a place. Kammler Buick-Pontiac Co., Route 206, opp. Princeton Airport, 921-2222.

ELECTRIC LIVING GUIDE

48 pages illustrated by P. Williams & Co., Inc., New York

BATHING BEAUTY WEATHER!

"When they gather the girls from 'all over the universe(?)' for the annual who's-the-most-beautiful contests, the promoters can pick the right time of year, and a sunshine state to make it all go smoothly for both the ramp paraders and the spectators.

"The rest of us though can't wait around for the right weather, or for our bathing. And it's a bad day when you step from a warm shower to a cold floor.

"At least it's a bad day for some people. Not for us. We've had an electric heating system now for two years and it has allowed the house to be just right in everything from below-zero weather to chilly summer drizzles."

The bathroom warmth, of course, a utility company executive tells us, "is strictly a bonus feature. . . it's just that it's the kind of 'extra' people appreciate. Maybe even what they notice. You can get used to anything, including perfection! In fact we hope you will."

— Speed and Precision Cited —

Room to room thermostats and heat at the speed of light means electric heat starts to work instantly. Or, as the utility man says, "you don't have to live in a sunshine state to bask in that kind of warmth all year round. All you need is to live modern and let a complete electric home heating system pamper you."

GREATER DECORATING FREEDOM

Electric heating, according to interior decorators, "frees up a room" and permits furniture arrangements not possible with older type systems.

Sounds like fiction, but it's a fact—electrical heating units like baseboards or wall panels heat a room to within half a degree of precise thermostat setting, yet are never more than comfortably warm to the touch. Hence, there is no excessive heat from the unit to damage fabrics, or limit furniture placement.

Electrical heating can also be actually "invisible" if desired. The ceiling cable type is concealed by plaster. Electrical baseboards, not much thicker than an ordinary baseboard, can be recessed if a flush wall effect is desired.

QUESTION BOX

Q. What is the most satisfactory setting for a thermostat with an electric heating system?

A. What's most satisfactory to you? With a properly installed electric heating system in a properly insulated house, you choose what you want, when you want it, where you want it. Most people are most comfortable in the 68 degree to 72 degree range. . . but maybe you like 80 degrees some times.

If You Are Planning To Build, Buy or Remodel Call Any One Of The Contractors Listed Below. He'll Give You All The Facts On Total Electric Home Heating.

This elegant relic reminds us of by-gone days. Be elegant, better your days ahead with total electric home heating.

Q. Which material is most satisfactory for the exterior of a house with electric baseboards? I've heard it's brick.

A. It's not what's outside that counts so much as what's inside. In the middle, like a sandwich, brick is fine if you like brick. If not, whatever else you fancy for the outside that's considered suitable for your region is just as fine as brick. We don't know where this erroneous belief that "brick is best" started. Suffice it to say the word we'd really like to see get around is to make sure that the part you don't see, the insulation, is correct. Getting that message across would be a real service! Not only would you be getting all the heat you're paying for, but with an electric heating system you'll be living in real comfort.

Q. Where does one find out about converting to electrical heating?

A. Get in touch with one of the reputable electrical contractors listed in this feature.

Q. What kind of roofing material is recommended with electrical heating?

A. Here again, as in the question above, there are no particular limitations. Whatever your builder says. About the only qualification the electrical heating industry harps on is "make sure quality materials are used." You see, unlike other systems, electricity is the 100% usable fuel. Pity to waste it with shoddy materials and poor construction.

Q. Is there any special reason why electric homes are built only in developments? Do they get more power? Can you have an individual house in a colony that's equipped for electricity?

A. Somebody sold you a false idea! Most of the electrically heated houses in the country are "individual." Many including very old houses are in fact "converted." It's the individual house power wiring that makes the difference. . . and that's done at installation time.

- EASILY ADJUSTABLE AIR-SHUTTER regulates the flow of air for efficient combustion.
- LOW INSTALLATION COSTS:
The entire unit is factory-wired and assembled. Will fit into a minimum amount of space, thus requiring little or no expenditure for special construction to house it.
- DURABLE "PINPOINT" HEAT TRANSFER SECTIONS are made of corrosion-resisting cast iron. High rate of heat transfer means quick comfort. Covered by a ten-year cost-free warranty.
- SENSITIVE FAN AND LIMIT CONTROL starts and stops blower automatically and limits temperature to a safe range. The built-in summer switch permits you to have air circulation in your home without heating during warm days.

BIG FAMILY? . . . here is a handsome brick residence with 5 bedrooms and 3 1/2 baths in an established neighborhood of fine homes. Large recreation room for the children, beautiful living and dining rooms and a very modern kitchen for you, and a wonderfully isolated library for the man of the house. Considering all the extras that go with the house—such as new wall-to-wall carpeting and five air conditioners — this property should be seen before you decide. (sole agent) $49,500

NEWLIN ROAD . . . rarely does
a property on this quiet street ever become available. This fine home, shaded by lofty trees and surrounded by distinguished neighbors, offers all the comforts and amenities that you'd naturally expect of this most desirable section of Princeton. Yet the delightful formal garden in back, and the rewards it offers so far as relaxed outdoor living is concerned, come as a welcome and very satisfying plus.
$64,000

LIBRARY PLACE . . . here is one of those large, stately residences for which Colonial Princeton is justly famous. Large center hall, living room with fireplace, a very spacious dining room, library, kitchen, laundry and maid's sitting room on the first floor. Second floor: master bedroom with dressing room and bath, 4 other bedrooms and bath. Third floor: 2 maid's rooms and bath, 2 guest rooms and bath. Many great shade trees embellish the property, and a swimming pool in back adds a final touch. $70,000

MANOR HOUSE . . . this superb old Colonial dwelling is one of those places that everyone who dreams of living in the country would like to own. Only twelve minutes from Princeton, in real farming territory, it stands under magnificent shade trees, behind the long driveway that curves up to the front door. Inside, the beautiful living and dining rooms, the cosy paneled library, the very modern kitchen, the delightful game room with its bar, and its 4 bedrooms and 3 baths — all this lives up to the promise of gracious living which strikes you when you first glimpse the place. You know that it must have plenty of land for privacy, and it does—35 acres approximately. . . . But you get the surprise of your life when you stroll out of the living room and into the indoor swimming pool annex. An octagonal structure 60 feet in diameter, made of brick and walled with tile, it has a heated pool large enough for a platon to splash in, and a vast expanse of flagstones with plenty of room to entertain all the guests
you can think of. In addition, there is an enormous built-in barbeque, a wing with separate dressing rooms, each with bath, a large sauna with room for eight, and a complete little kitchen.

(sole agent) $175,000

BUILD ON THE LAKE . . . gorgeous location, a steeply sloping
lot to challenge your architect's imagination and city sewer available so you can build this year.
